The Best Portuguese Poet of the Eighteenth Century

3. BOCAGE, [Manuel Maria l'Hedoux de Barbosa du]. Sonetos, sátiras, odes, epístolas, idílios, apólogos, cantatas e elegias. Daniel Pires, ed. Lisbon: Imprensa Nacional, and Setubal: Município Participada, 2018. Obras Completas de Bocage, volume I, tomos 1 & 2. 8°, original illustrated wrappers. As new. 729, (1) pp., (2 blank ll.), footnotes, indexes; 730 pp., (1 l., 2 blank ll.), footnotes, bibliography, indexes. ISBN: 978-972-27-2489-0. Volume I, tomos 1 & 2. $90.00

Daniel Pires has devoted his usual graceful erudition and serious hard work to the thorny problem of Bocage. His introductory study occupies pp. 5-23 of tomo I. Barbosa du Bocage (1765-1805), an accomplished Arcadian poet (known as Amano Sadino) with strong romantic tendencies, wrote a great deal of occasional verse. Bell thought he was capable of much greater things. The poet was an infantry soldier, but deserted at Damão and spent some time wandering through China, Macao and Goa before returning to Portugal. Tried and imprisoned on the basis of the anti-monarchical and anti-Catholic tone of his poems, when he was released he spent the rest of his life mostly doing translations, at which he was quite skilled. His work has always remained in print, though often in questionable editions. Always popular, Bocage has been gaining the esteem of critics. Bocage's Obra completa, was published by the now defunct Caixotim Edições, also edited by Pires, in 2004, with a second edition, 2008. Curiously, the Caixotim edition is not mentioned; we guess the present one contains some improvements, but have not been able to compare the two. The organization of the volumes of that edition appears to have been different.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION, a COMPLETE RUN. In its choice of collaborators, this weekly magazine favored those not associated with the Estado Novo, the majority of whom had ties to MUD and were opposed to the Salazar government. There were, as would be expected, problems with the official censorship. In issue number 6, the censors obliged the magazine to publish a "Declaração" regarding two articles critical of the status quo by António Ramos de Almeida, which had appeared in issue number 4. In the 52nd issue, May 1947, the suspension of the review was announced. After almost a year, the 53rd issue appeared, perhaps symbolically, on May 1, 1948, with the aid of Editorial

Cosmos, directed by Manuel Rodrigues de Oliveira. Emil Anderson left the editorial board after issue number 30. Adolfo Casais Monteiro, who had been something of the de-facto editor, and whose name on the masthead irritated the authorities, withdrew from the editorial board for the final issue, but continued as a contributor. Despite this, there were then orders to suspend publication, and appeals were to no avail.

Mundo literário was not doctrinaire, and was without commitment to any particular literary movement. In its pages were debated the aesthetics of neo-realism and the second wave of modernism of Presença. It attempted to expose Portuguese readers to the work of Kafka (hitherto totally unknown), Jean-Paul Sartre, Henri Michaux, José Rodrigues Miguéis, Aleixo Ribeiro, Graciliano Ramos, José Lins do Rego, Soeiro Pereira Gomes, Alves Redol, Manuel da Fonseca, and Carlos de Oliveira. In Portugal at the time, it also was unusual for introducing American authors such as Walt Whitman, Hemingway, John dos Passos, and Langston Hughes, which engendered suspicion on the part of the censors. An article by Upton Sinclair on Mark Twain appeared in issues 27 and 28. Lusophone African authors were also recognized. Number 46 was partly dedicated to the centenary of Castro Alves.

There was an important polemical sequence of literary criticism between José Régio and Joel Serrão, and another between Serrão and João Gaspar Simões. After the 27th issue, literary criticism was assumed by Adolfo Casais Monteiro, António Pedro, António Ramos de Almeida, António Salgado Júnior, Armando Ventura Ferreira, Joel Serrão, Jorge de Sena and Mário Sacramento. Musical criticism was by Francine Benoit, Humberto d'Avila, and José Blanc de Portugal. Film critics were Adolfo Casais Monteiro, Manuel de Azevedo, and Rui Grácio. Theater critics were António Pedro, Luiz Francisco Rebello, and Manuela Porto.

New currents in the fine arts, as exemplified by Picasso and Portinari, were examined. The review published illustrations critical of the bourgeoisie by Bernardo Marques (issue 4), George Grosz (issue 25), Talitsky on the Holocaust and Nazi concentration camps (issue 24), and a self portrait by Dórdio Gomes (issue 6). There were also artistic contributions by Júlio (issue 31) and Júlio Pomar (issue 35). Beginning with the 5th issue, António Pedro wrote a series titled "História Breve da Pintura". The final issue denounced the non-existence of a Museum of Modern Art in Portugal.

Other important texts which appeared in the pages of this review are too numerous to mention here in their entirety. Among the most noteworthy are Adolfo Casais Monteiro, "A Crítica, a História e o Homem" (issue 1), "Valores Humanos e Valores Estéticos" (issue 6), "Guernica" (issue 10); 2 poems by Alexandre O'Neill, "A Bilha" and "Acórdeão" (issue 31); António José Saraiva, "O Pássaro Azul" (criticism of João Gaspar Simões, issue 53); António Sérgio, "A propósito de uma Discussão entre Antero de Quental e Oliveira Martins" (issue 37); Augusto Abeleira, "Sinceridade e Falta de Convicções na Obra de Fernando Pessoa" (issue 51); Jorge de Sena's presentation of a semi-unpublished poem by Cesário Verde, "Loira" (issue 29); Diogo de Macedo, "Pousão e Colombano" (issue 3); 2 poems by Eugénio de Andrade (issue 31), and 2 more poems by the same author (issue 53); and Gilberto Freyre, "Jorge de Lima e o Movimento do Nordeste" (issue 2). There were also texts by Branquinho da Fonseca (issues 16, 17, and 30), Cabral do Nascimento (issues 27 and 40), Fernando Namora (issue 19), Fernando Pessoa (issue 24), Francisco José Tenreiro (issue 36), Jacinto do Prado Coelho (issue 52), Romulo de Carvalho (issues 33 and 49) and Mário de Andrade (issues 13 and 18), as well as 3 poems by Carlos Drummond de Andrade, and others by Pedro de Silveira, Tomás Kim, and Vinicius de Moraes.

PROPOMO NOS uma difficil empreza: ser, entre a arte, a ciência e a litteratura de um lado, e do outro o público, o terreno comum em que aquellas não se vejam apoucadas, e este não sinta o mal estar de quem só ouve falar á sua volta uma lingua estranha. A lingua é a mesma — e é importante saber-se que os problemas de quem escreve são os mesmos que os do leitor.

É um facto haver hoje entre nós um divorcio enorme do público com as mais nobres actividades do espirito. Mas temos como certo que ele é perfeitamente capaz de reagir favoravelmente, quando se procure considerá-lo um ser dotado de razão, curioso dos problemas, de espirito pronto a alargar os seus horizontes — e ao qual interressará evidentemente saber que os chamados «problemas do espirito» não mais alguma coisa do que parecem supor os habituais fornecedores das suas litteras periódicas.

MUNDO LITERÁRIO dirige-se a todos os portugueses de boa vontade que, ao comprar um jornal, esperam encontrar alguma coisa que vá ao encontro dos seus problemas e curiosidades reais. Aos que despreciam a falsa actualidade, mas também a falsa eternidade de pseudo-problemas, que não respondem a qualquer ansiedade presente. Não procurando os caminhos do formalismo fácil e confustocista, nem pretendendo atocoprur-se a attitudes irrespiráveis, MUNDO LITERÁRIO conta preencher um vazio inadmissivel que todos sentiam.

A CRÍTICA A HISTÓRIA E O HOMEM

POR ADOLFO CASAIS MONTEIRO

MERGULHADOS no presente, que a cada momento nos exige uma resposta, um acto, atentos, pela força de existências, à novidade que a cada momento se vai revelando ante os nossos olhos, bem certo é não se poder exigir de nós que, como o astrónomo, prescrevamos este mesmo mundo presente tal qual se ele existisse a milhares de léguas — e de annos. Não podemos ter o ponto de vista de Sirus, Sermus ou de próprios, e ao mesmo tempo o astrónomo — impossível.

Éis a dificuldade e a limitação do crítico, o qual está sempre arriçado a fulgar-se em bairros — quer dizer, a fazer critica como se existisse a fazer historia. Sobretudo quando de critica ás artes e ás letras se trata, importa termos logo sempre presente, não só a acumbria a tentação (e quem não a sofre?) de «dara valores», como a professoral infalibilidade, de assentar

«definitivamente qual o lugar de cada escritor ou de cada artista, de dispor a cena final da peça quando ella ainda vai no primeiro acto. «Mes-

FIRST and ONLY EDITION—A COMPLETE RUN of this important review. The editors were Carlos F. Barroso, Lobatão Vital and J. Soares Lopes. Lobatão Vital resigned after the sixth number, and Soares Lopes did the same after number 28. The publisher and owner was Dilermando Martinho. Beginning with the 6th number, the subtitle changed to Quinzenário cultural de literatura e crítica. Initially the review included writers from different literary and political currents: "presencistas" such as José Régio, João Gaspar Simões, Adolfo Casais Monteiro, monarchists such as Castelo Branco Chaves, and "seareiros" such as António Sérgio, Hernâni Cidade and Irene Lisboa, but eventually neo-realist writers, such as Abel Salazar, Mário Dionísio, Manuel da Fonseca, João José Cochofel, Fernando Namora, Joaquim Namorado, Alves Redol, Álvaro Cunhal, António Ramos de Almeida, Joffre Amaral Nogueira, among others, gained the upper hand. In the 10th issue it was announced that Sol nascente would henceforth "amar a luta". This was further accentuated by a declaration in the 27th number, and even more in the 34th, the review's second anniversary. By the third anniversary there was a pronounced affinity with the proposals of the Portuguese Communist Party. Shortly thereafter Sol nascente was suppressed by the censors of the Estado Novo.

Several virulent polemics took place in the pages of the review. Abel Salazar and António Sérgio fought over the doctrines of the "Círculo de Viena" (in German "Wiener Kreis"; numbers 10, 12), and over articles by Gago Coutinho, "Mecânica clássica" published in Seara Nova (numbers 20, 24). There was also an exchange between Abel Salazar and Adolfo Casais Monteiro about the concept of science (number 4, 10). Disputes between "presencistas" and neo-realists became increasingly intemperate. Armando Martins accused José Régio of "psicologismo" and "egocentismo" (numbers 20, 24). Régio replied with irony (number 21), only later to be severely criticized (number 36). Another heated exchange took place between Álvaro Cunhal and José Régio, with Régio writing in Seara Nova, Cunhal responding with considerable invective in Sol nascente (number 37), and Régio answering the attack in Presença. João Gaspar Simões criticized poetical concepts of Amorim de Carvalho (numbers 30, 31), and also of Coriolano Ferreira, who had signed an article "Reflexões sobre a utilidade da arte" (number 22). Joffre Amaral Nogueira had attacked the "individualismo egoísta da democracia burguesa" (number 28). Amaran Nogueira and António Sérgio opposed each other over the philosophy of Antero de Quental (numbers 35, 37). Sérgio, Régio, and Seara nova were frequently criticized in Sol nascente.

Foreign neo-realist manifestations were frequently publicized. Joaquim Namorado wrote a long article titled "Do neo-romantismo: o sentido heroico da vida na obra de Jorge Amado (numbers 43-44, pp. 22-3). Other themes covered were education, literary creativity, opposition to the death penalty, and dialectical materialism (numbers 29 and following, 38, 40). Attention was paid to Galician literature, especially Castelao (numbers 14, 17, etc.). Garcia Lorca was one of the foreign writers most often mentioned (number 38, etc.). Sexuality, a theme almost completely absent from the Portuguese press, appeared in citations from Wilhelm Reich (number 39, etc.), and an appeal by Álvaro Cunhal, "E serão dois numa só carne" (number 39).

Every issue save the first contains a reproduction of an important work of art on the front page. Artists included are Abel Salazar, Augusto Tavares, Casimiro de Carvalho, Cruz Caldas, Domínguez Alvarez, Dórdio Gomes, Frederico George, George Grosz, Gonçalves Torres, Herculano de Figueiredo, João Barreira, Joaquim Lopes, Leopoldo de Almeida, Magalhães Filho, Manuel Lima, Mendes da Silva, Nils af Strom, Simbach, Skogzila Wladyslaw and Ventura Porfírio. Many of the images depict social inequity. The final issue shows the iconic work "Café" by the Brazilian painter Candido Portinari, which had been exhibited at the Brazilian pavilion in the Exposição do Mundo Português, Belém, 1940, and resides permanently at the Museu Nacional de Belas Artes do Rio de Janeiro.

Other collaborators were Alberto de Serpa (a poem in number 4), Álvaro Salema (numbers 17, 19, 23), Castelo Branco Chaves (numbers 2, 6, 9, 15, 16, 17), Cruz Malpique (poem in number 6), Henri Lefébre (numbers 29-33, 36, 39), Jaime Brasil (numbers 7, 11, 24), João Falco (numbers 12, 13, 15, 16, 18, 19, 22, 24-27, 31), João Pedro de Andrade (numbers 8, 24, 26, 28, 31, 33), Manuel da Fonseca (poem in number 38) and Nicolas Guillén (number 30).

FIRST EDITION of one of the future poet laureate's major, relatively early works.

Madoc, also spelled Madog, ab Owain Gwynedd was, according to folklore, a Welsh prince who sailed to America in 1170, over three hundred years before Columbus's voyage in 1492. According to the story, he was a son of Owain Gwynedd, and took to the sea to flee internecine violence at home.

Madoc's legend has been a notable subject for poets. The most famous account in English is this long 1805 poem by Robert Southey, which uses the story to explore the poet's freethinking and egalitarian ideals. Southey wrote Madoc to help finance a trip of his own to America, where he and Samuel Taylor Coleridge hoped to establish a Utopian state they called a "Pantisocracy". Southey's poem in turn inspired the twentieth-century poet Paul Muldoon to write Madoc: A Mystery, which won the Geoffrey Faber Memorial Prize in 1992. It explores what may have happened if Southey and Coleridge had succeeded in coming to America to found their "ideal state".
