SPECIAL LIST 432

THE MADEIRA ISLANDS

*Prussian Royal Excursion to Brazil, Madeira, Tenerife, Mt. Aetna, the Alhambra,
Gibraltar, and Cádiz*

1. ADALBERT, Prince of Prussia. Reise Seiner Königlichen Hoheit Prinzen Adalbert von Preussen nach Brasilien. Nach dem Tagebuche Seiner Königlichen Hoheit mit Hochster Genehmigung auszugslich bearbeitet und herausgegeben. Berlin: Hasselberg'sche Verlagshandlung, 1857. 8°, contemporary dark green cloth (very minor wear), spine richly gilt in a romantic design. Fraktur type. Small piece cut from upper corners of half-title and front flyleaf, presumably removing a former owner's signature. Slight marginal foxing on portrait. Otherwise attractive. Overall very good condition. Library stamp on title-page. Small armorial blindstamp on half title. "2. Sep. 1930" stamped in violet ink in upper outer corner of rear free endleaf verso. Small rectangular black on white printed paper ticket of "C.A. Heinrich // Buchbinder und // Galanteriearbeiter // GOERLITZ." in lower outer corner of rear pastedown endleaf. Portrait, (2 ll.), 749 pp., (1 l.). $800.00

First edition of this adaptation. Prince Adalbert's Aus meinem Tagebuche, was printed for private distribution only; Kletke rewrote the Prince's first-person diary as a third-person narrative and offered it commercially. The frontispiece shows the Prince in full military regalia.

Prince Adalbert and his suite arrived in Rio de Janeiro in 1842. From there they made several excursions, to Nova Friburgo, Macaé, Campos, etc. Next they sailed to Pará, from there up the Amazon to the Xingu, and up the Xingu to a point never before visited by Europeans. Upon their return to Pará the Prince and his entourage made excursions into Maranhão, Recife and Bahia. The Brazilian section of the book covers pp. 207-749. Preceding it is a description of the Prince's journeys to Aetna, the Alhambra, Gibraltar, Cádiz, Madeira and Tenerife, with substantial chapters on each.

* Borba de Moraes (1983) I, 14. Berger, Bibliografia do Rio de Janeiro (1980) p. 2. Bosch 486. Not in Greenlee Catalogue; Welsh 3837 is an English translation. Not in Vieira & Freitas, Madeira: investigação bibliográfica. NUC: DLC, NN, WU, PPG, CU.

Drama on the Destruction of Jerusalem, by Native of Madeira

2. AGUIAR, Manoel Caetano Pimenta de. Destruição de Jerusalem. Tragedia. Lisbon: Na Impressão Regia, 1817. 8°, recent crimson quarter morocco over marbled boards, spine with raised bands in five compartments. Small woodcut arms of Portugal on title page. In very good to fine condition. 114 pp. $160.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The prophesies of Jeremiah are fulfilled.

Manoel Caetano Pimenta Aguiar (1765-1832), a native of Madeira, served as a captain of cavalry in the French revolutionary army in 1790, being awarded the Legion of Honor. He was elected a deputy to the Côrtes in 1823, and won re-election, but left the political arena in 1828, being persecuted by the Miguelistas. Aguiar published at least nine other historical dramas between 1815 and 1820. Ferdinand Denis appreciated Aguiar's attempt to start a national drama and particularly liked Conquista do Peru, 1818 (Resumé de l'histoire litteraire du Portugal, quoted at length in Innocência).

* Innocência V, 382; XVI, 146. Vieira & Freitas, Madeira: investigação bibliográfica, I, item 3131; III, item 2832. OCLC: 1190171 (13 locations; New York Public Library, Harvard College Library, Houghton Library, Library of Congress, Indiana University, British Library, Bibliothèque nationale de France, Bibliothèque nationale et universitaire -Strasbourg, Universitätsbibliothek Leipzig, and Bayerische Staatsbibliothek appear to have hard copies). Porbase locates three copies, all in the Biblioteca Nacional de Portugal. Jisc repeats British Library.

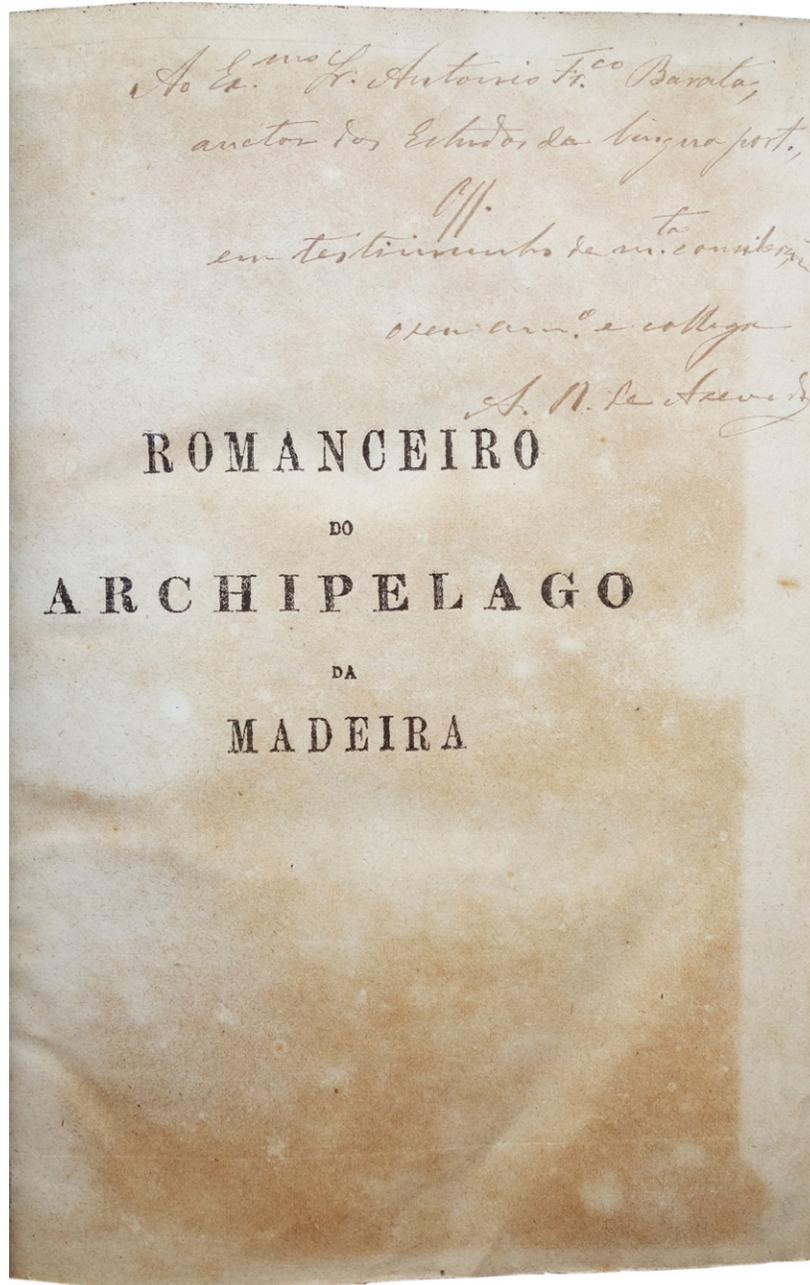

Vandals at the Gates

3. AGUIAR, Manoel Caetano Pimenta de. Theatro Tragico Portuguez. Por Eudoxia Licinia. Tragedia. 8.^a. Lisbon: Na Impressão Regia, 1818. 8°, recent crimson quarter morocco over marbled boards, spine with raised bands in five compartments. Small woodcut arms of Portugal on title page. In very good to fine condition. 100 pp. $120.00

FIRST EDITION? Set in the late Roman Empire, at the court of Valentinian III. The Vandals are at the gates.

Manoel Caetano Pimenta Aguiar (1765-1832), a native of Madeira, served as a captain of cavalry in the French revolutionary army in 1790, being awarded the Legion of Honor. *Popular Poetry of the Madeira Islands—Much from the Middle Ages
With Author's Signed Presentation Inscription*

4. AZEVEDO, Alvaro Rodrigues de, ed. Romanceiro do Archipelago da Madeira. Colligido e publicado por Funchal: Typ. da "Voz do Povo", 1880. 4°, later quarter vellum over decorated boards, two black morocco lettering pieces with short author and title lettered in gilt. A few leaves browned. In very good condition. Author's six-line signed ink manuscript presentation inscription to António Francisco Barata on half title. Small circular white on dark blue paper ticket of the binder "Paulino // Lisboa // 82 R.N. da Trindade" tipped on the upper outer corner of front pastedown endleaf. xxiv, 514 pp. $800.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this anthology of popular poetry from the Madeira Islands, much dating from the late middle ages.

Álvaro Rodrigues de Azevedo (Vila Franca de Xira, 1825-Lisbon, 1898), lawyer, teacher, politician, journalist, writer and historian who lived a great part of his life in Madeira, contributed to the valorization of the literary and cultural panorama. He was responsible for the partial publication of the important manuscript of the Saudades da Terra, by Gaspar Frutuoso, with extensive notes which clarified a number of points regarding the history of Madeira. Despite having been born in Vila Franca de Xira, he lived 26 years in Madeira, considering the island his adoptive home.

* Innocêncio, Aditamentos, p. 16. Vieira & Freitas, Madeira: investigação bibliográfica, I, item 227; III, item 2581. On Rodrigues de Azevedo see Grande enciclopédia XXVI, 25. For the binder "Paulino" Ferreira, see Matias Lima, Encadernadores portugueses, pp. 104-5; also Raul Proença and António Anselmo, "Como encaderna um livro" in I, iv, 273. Porbase locates three copies: two in the Biblioteca Nacional de Portugal (one in the "Reservas", as well as two microfilm copies), and a copy in the Biblioteca Pública Regional de Madeira. Jisc cites copies in the British Library and Cambridge University.

Another Copy of the Previous Work

5. AZEVEDO, Álvaro Rodrigues de, ed. *Romanceiro do Archipelago da Madeira. Sweeping Changes Proposed for the Funchal Customs House

8. FREITAS, Manoel Caetano Cezar de. [Begins] Senhor. Se hoje he livre, e permittido a hum simples Cidadão illustrar a sua Patria com os seus escriptos, e mostrar ao público os cancellos, que se oppõem á sua felicidade civil, e politica; não será estranhado a hum Funcionario público, como o Representante, empregado no ramo de Finanças, Ouvidor, e Juiz da Alfandega da Cidade do Funchal na Ilha de Madeira [colophon] Lisbon: Na Impressão de Alcobia, 1821. Folio (31.2 x 21.6 cm.), stitched. Uncut. In fine condition. (8 ll.). $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION? The writer was Ouvidor and Juiz da Alfandega in Funchal. He proposes a sweeping overhaul of the Finances of the Customs House there. This should be seen in the context of the 1820 liberal revolution in Portugal. In 1821 the Constitutional Côrtes was meeting, writing Portugal's first constitution, which would be promulgated the following year. The present text makes reference to the proposed constitution.

Important Sixteenth-Century Work Published for the First Time

9. FRUCTUOSO [or Frutuoso], Gaspar. As saudades da terra pelo ... Historia das ilhas do Porto-Sancto, Madeira, desertas e selvagens. Manuscripto do seculo XVI anotado por Alvaro Rodrigues de Azevedo. Funchal: Typ. Funchalense, 1873. Large 8° (in 4s), later quarter calf over marbled boards, spine gilt with raised bands in five compartments, red morocco lettering piece in second compartment from head, marbled endleaves, text block edges marbled. Light browning. Overall in very good to fine condition. Three-line old ink manuscript inscription on front free endleaf verso. Brown on beige printed paper ticket of Livraria Academica, Porto, 4.9 x 3.3 cm., tipped on to upper outer corner of front pastedown endleaf. Lithograph portrait of João Gonçalves Zargo, xi, 920 pp. $1,200.00

FIRST EDITION of this classic account. The transcription of the manuscript extends to p. 310; notes by the editor, Rodrigues de Azevedo, fill the remaining 600-odd pages.

Frutuoso's magisterial, multi-volume history and geography of Portugal's Atlantic possessions (the Azores, Madeira, Cape Verde and the Canary Islands) was unpublished at his death, and remained so until it was donated to the Public Library and Archive on Ponta Delgada in the nineteenth century.

Gaspar Frutuoso (Ponta Delgada, 1522-Ribeira Grande, 1591), historian, priest and humanist, was a native of São Miguel in the Açores. He received both a bachelor's degree after studying under Domingos de Soto at the University of Salamanca, and a doctorate in theology from the Salamanca, or perhaps from the Jesuit university at Évora.

* Fonseca, Aditamentos p. 169: giving the date as 1872, probably in error since the preface is dated 1873, and without mention of the lithograph portrait; cf. Innocência IX,

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of the COMPLETE COLLECTION. With the exception of the Vieira and Freitas bibliography, we have found no reference to more than the first 3 fascicles, and scant references to these. The first fascicle, referred to on the half title as "Volume I" and on the title page as "1.º Volume" deals with England, beginning with Liverpool, then brief description of Manchester, a long section on London, followed by brief sections on Old Hall Green and Brighton. The second fascicle, referred to on the title page as "2.ª Fasciculo", deals with Belgium and the Rhineland. The third fascicle, referred to on the title page as "França, Tomo I", deals exclusively with Paris. The fourth fascicle, referred to on the title page as "4.º Fasciculo, França, Tomo II", also deals substantially with Paris to p. 104, then goes on to describe the suburbs of Paris, Vichy, Bayonne, Pau, Lourdes, Toulouse, Marseilles, and Nice. These first 4 parts are bound in the first volume. The second volume begins with what is referred to on the title page as "5.ª Fasciculo, Italia, Tomo Primeiro". Beginning with some general comments, it has a brief section on Genoa, a more substantial one on Florence, a brief description of Piza, the remainder of the volume dealing with Rome, beginning on p. [69]. The next part is referred to on the title page as "Sexto Fasciculo, Italia, Tomo Segundo". It deals exclusively with Rome. The final part is referred to on the title page as "Septimo Fascicluo, Italia, Tomo Terceiro". It also deals exclusively with Rome.

Madeira Native Defends Himself and Counter-Attacks

16. MELLO [or Melo], João Pacheco de. Resposta ao aviso que o desembargador Roque Francisco Furtado de Mello fez publicar em 4 de Março do corrente anno de 1822 no Astro da Lusitania N.º 22, e ao seu folheto intitulado: Exposição justificativa, sobre o despacho intempestivo da regencia, que o aposentou. Lisbon: Imprensa Liberal, 1822. 4°, contemporary plain wrappers (somewhat soiled, two small holes caused by tears to front cover, spine backed). Printer's name within laurel branches. Small dampstain at inner margin of title page and following leaf. Overall in very good condition. 29 pp., (1 leaf errata). $350.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Roque Francisco Furtado de Mello had been removed from his duties as a desembargador at Porto, largely on the basis of a dispatch written by João Pacheco de Mello. He had defended himself in the newspaper Astro da Lusitania and in a pamphlet, Exposição justificativa ..., in which he protested his innocence of charges that he had been a corrupt magistrate during his 9-year tenure (1806-1815) as juiz de fora on the island of São Miguel in the Açores. Pacheco de Melo ("da Ilha da Madeira," according to the title page) replies, providing details of alleged corruption in Ponta Delgada, Vila da Lagoa and Ribeira Grande. Among other malfeasance, João Pacheco de Mello accuses Roque Francisco de Mello of stealing 5% of the income intended for orphans in Ponta Delgada.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The folding plate is a view of the Hospício da Princesa Dona Maria Amelia in Funchal, produced by the Lith. de D.F. Lopes, Lisbon after a photograph by João F. Camacho, Funchal.

Dona Maria Amélia (1831-1853) was a princess of the Empire of Brazil and a member of the Brazilian branch of the House of Bragança. Her parents were Emperor Dom Pedro I, the first ruler of Brazil, and his second wife, the Empress D. Amélie of Leuchtenberg. The only child of her father's second marriage, Maria Amélia was born in France after Pedro I abdicated the Brazilian throne in favor of his son Dom Pedro II. Before Maria Amélia was a month old, Pedro I went to Portugal to restore the crown of the eldest daughter of his first marriage, Dona Maria II. He fought a successful war against his brother Miguel I, who had usurped Maria II's throne. Only a few months after his victory, Pedro I died from tuberculosis. Maria Amélia's mother took her to Portugal, where she remained for most of her life without ever visiting Brazil. The Brazilian government refused to recognize Maria Amélia as a member of Brazil's Imperial House because she was foreign-born, but when her elder half-brother D. Pedro II was declared of age in 1840, he successfully intervened on her behalf. D. Maria Amélia became engaged to Archduke Maximilian of Austria in early 1852, but before the marriage could take place she contracted tuberculosis, and was taken to the town of Funchal on the Portuguese island of Madeira. Despite its reputedly healthy climate, her health continued to deteriorate, and she died on 4 February 1853. Her body was taken to mainland Portugal and interred in the Pantheon of the House of Braganza; almost 130 years later, her remains were taken to Brazil. In honor of her daughter, D. Maria Amélia's mother financed the construction of the "Princesa D. Maria Amélia" hospital in Funchal. The widowed Duchess of Bragança, Dona Amélia, i.e., Amélie of Leuchtenberg (Portuguese: Amélia Augusta Eugénia Napoleona de Leuchtenberg; French: Amélie Auguste Eugénie Napoléonne de Leuchtenberg, 1812-1873), former Empress of Brazil, was the granddaughter of Josephine de Beauharnais, Empress of the French. Her father, Eugène de Beauharnais, was the only son of Empress Josephine and her first husband Alexandre, Viscount of Beauharnais. He thus became a stepson of Napoleon Bonaparte when his mother married the future emperor. The mother of Empress Amélie was Princess Augusta, daughter of Maximilian I, King of Bavaria. D. Amélia was a well educated, cultured woman. She amassed a considerable library.

*Do que se praticou na Cidade do Funchal da Ilha da Madeira no Acto da
Aclamação do Muito Alto e Poderoso Rei o Serenissimo Senhor
D. João VI., e de tudo o mais que se fez em consequencia da mesma solemne Aclamação.*

AS virtudes politicas, e Christãs, que adornão o magnanimo Coração de Sua Magestade Fidelissima ElRei Nosso Senhor, merecendo de seus leaes, e fieis Vassallos, a mais particular adhesão á Sua Augusta, e Real Pessoa, davão hum poderoso motivo aos habitantes da Ilha da Madeira, que tanto se presão de huma respeitosa, e fiel vassallagem aos Seus Soberanos, a patentearem de hum modo assis vantajoso o grande jubilo de que se achavão possuidos pela feliz Aclamação de tão Grande Monarca, cujas Reaes Virtudes promettem seus mesmos Vassallos os mais felices resultados; porém a brevidade com que se devia executar esta tão alegre, e magestosa Função, por ter a Camara desta Cidade recebido o Officio para a sua execução poucos dias antes do dia 7 de Abril, que lhe foi destinado, transtornou em parte os projectos da mesma Camara, que por esta razão se viu obrigada a desistir daquelles que não podião ter lugar em tão curto espaço de tempo.

Em consequencia do referido Officio, que lhe foi dirigido pelo Illustrissimo, e Excellentissimo Governador e Capitão General deste Estado Florencio José Corrêa de Mello, em data de 23 de Março do corrente anno, fez immediatamente a Camara desta mesma Cidade, presidida pelo Doutor Juiz de Fora Joaquim José Nabuco de Araujo, affixar hum Edital determinando nelle aos habitantes desta Cidade, que não só na noite daquelle dia 7 de Abril illuminassem as janellas de suas casas, mas que igualmente o fizessem nas noites dos dias 8, e 9, por serem todos elles destinados a festejos publicos em consequencia da referida Aclamação; prevenindo no mesmo Edital a todos os moradores das ruas por ondê devião passar os Reaes Escudos para terem as janellas de suas casas com todo o ornamento possivel quando por aquellas ruas fossem processionalmente passando os mesmos Reaes Escudos; determinando finalmente que todos os Cidadãos comparecessem naquelle solemne acto vestidos das mais custosas, e luzidas gallas, Officiou-se para este mesmo fim ás pessoas da Governança, que se ajuntarão nas Casas da Camara com outras muitas pessoas destinadas a formarem aquelle alegre, e vistoso Cortejo, todas igualmente vestidas de galla, e a maior parte dellas com capa, e volta, e chapéo de aba levantada, com plumas brancas, o mais superiormente adornado, como em semelhantes occasiões se costuma praticar.

Na frente deste cortejo, hia o Procurador do Conselho Ayres de Ornelas e Vasconcellos, ricamente vestido, montado em hum soberbo cavallo, com dois moços de estribeira, levando na mão direita hum magnifico estandarte da Cidade: a hum, e outro lado do mesmo Procurador do Conselho, ca-

Lge. 16°, original printed wrappers (spine largely defective; a few nicks to front wrapper). Typographical border on front cover. Old faint purple stamp of the Duque de Palmela on front cover and even more faint such stamp on title page (ducal coronet over the monogram). 72 pp.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this highly significant, rare work dealing with fraternal organizations, charity and ways of assisting the poor.

José Silvestre Ribeiro (Idanha-a-Nova, 1807-Lisbon, 1891), Portuguese politician and historian, was administrator of various districts, among them his term as Governador Civil do Distrito de Funchal from 1846 to 1852 (with a brief interruption due to the Patuleia revolt), Minister of Justice, parliamentary deputy and peer of the realm. He distinguished himself on several occasions, not the least of which was in combating the 1847 famine in Madeira. He was one of the most advanced Portuguese thinkers of his time.

Provenance: The extensive library of the Dukes of Palmela, formed mainly in the nineteenth century, was dispersed, for the most part, during the second quarter of the twentieth century through the 1960s. The first to hold the title was D. Pedro de Sousa Holstein (1781-1850), a Portuguese diplomat who served as prime minister at various times in the 1830s and 1840s. He wrote profusely on politics and economics. (See Grande enciclopedia XX, 123-8.).

Poem about the Discovery of Madeira by a Madeira Native

36. VASCONCELLOS, Francisco de Paula Medina e. Zargueida, descobrimento da Ilha Madeira, poema heroico.... Lisbon: Na Of. de Simão Thaddeo Ferreira, 1806. 8°, contemporary mottled sheep (worn at head and foot of spine), flat spine gilt with crimson morocco lettering piece, short-title in gilt, text block edges sprinkled green. Small typographical vignette on title page. Typographical headpiece on p. [v]. Internally crisp and clean, in very good condition. Overall good. Old ink manuscript inscription "Joze Bento Valdez" above imprint on title page. Armorial bookplate of the Condes de Bomfim; letterpress shelf location tag in upper outer corner of front pastedown endleaf. (1 integral blank l.), [iii]-xii p., (2 ll.), 254 p., (1 integral blank l.). $250.00

FIRST EDITION of this rare epic poem on the discovery and of Madeira by Gonçalves Zarco; a second edition appeared in Lisbon, 1886. Innocencio notes that while Medina e Vasconcellos was rather well known in his own day, he became almost unknown later, although his compositions had many good points ("... nas muitas composições que nos deixou impressas ha ainda que aproveitar, na opinião de bons endendedores"). Aside from this and another epic, Medina e Vasconcellos wrote lyric poetry in the French style.

A native of Madeira (born ca. 1766-70), while a student at Coimbra Medina e Vasconcellos was accused of crimes that he indignantly states he had never even thought of; after a year and a half in prison, he was released on condition that he not return to Coimbra. He went back to Madeira, where in 1823 he was arrested for having contacts with partisans of the constitutional party. Medina e Vasconcellos died in 1824, on his way to serve an eight-year sentence of exile in Cabo-Verde.

Provenance: Armorial bookplate ("Condes do Bomfim" appears beneath the arms); see Avelar Duarte, Ex-libris portuguesas heráldicas, p. 275 (n° 770). The first Conde, José Lucio Travassos Valdez (1787-1862), served in the Peninsular Wars and was in charge of putting down both the rebellion under the Conde de Amarante in 1823 and the Miguelist insurrection in Trás-os-Montes a few years later. He was governor of Madeira and served with Costa Cabral and Rodrigo da Fonseca on the Conselho. When the Maria da Fonte movement broke out he was named commander of the government forces in the south, but having been captured in late 1846 by the Duque de Saldanha, was deported along with his two eldest sons to Angola for the duration of the war. Travassos Valdez's oldest son, José Bento Travassos Valdez, succeeded to the title. The third Conde, José Lucio Travassos Valdez (1841-1926) had been born in Luanda.

Situação desgraçada da industria* Funchal: Typ. Popular, n.d. (1884). 8°, original printed wrappers (small hole, ca. 3.5 x 2 cm., in blank rear wrapper; partial circular stamp on front wrapper). Some browning. In good to very good condition. Marginal annotations, mostly marks of emphasis rather than words. (1 blank l.), 72 pp., (1 blank l.) $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION.

João da Câmara Leme Homem de Vasconcellos (1829-1902), a native of Funchal, received a medical degree from Montpellier. According to the Nobreza de Portugal e do Brasil, II, 477, he was created Conde de Cannavial in 1880. However, this 1884 publication refers to him as Visconde. He wrote a number of scientific and literary works, including a translation of Dumas, and founded the newspapers A Liberdade, O Distrito do Funchal and Luz. One of the founders of a sugar factory in Madeira, he also wrote on aspects of sugar production and other agricultural matters. In 1886 he was nominated Governador Civil do Distrito do Funchal.

* Vieira & Freitas, Madeira: investigação bibliográfica, I, item 565 (referring to the author as Conde do Cannavial); II, item 610 (again calling the author Conde do Cannavial).
