Earliest Topographical and Historical Study of Guayas, Ecuador, Including Details on Pirates and Indians
With the Famous Plan of Guayaquil

FIRST EDITION of this important early description of the province of Guayas, on the coast of Ecuador, whose capital city, Santiago de Guayaquil, was established in 1537 by Francisco de Orellana. The Compendio, the earliest topographical and historical study of this area, gives accounts of the region’s products, commerce, flora and fauna, architecture, and shipbuilding.

In the introduction the author discusses the importance of Guayaquil as one of the major ports of the Spanish colonies in America, mentioning the attacks of English pirates such as Drake and Morgan and the measures that had been taken to defend the ports. A later chapter (pp. 82-90) is devoted to accounts of the English and Dutch pirates who had attacked the city. Chapters 10 and 11 refer to the Mangache and Colorado Indians.

The folding map, signed by Paul Minguet as engraver, shows the old and new sections of the city of Guayaquil, locating some 70 points of interest.

Alcedo y Herrera (1690-1777), Spanish historian and geographer, traveled to America in 1706 with the Viceroy of Peru; after occupying various significant administrative posts in Mexico and Peru, he later served as Presidente de la Audiencia y Capitán General of Quito and as Governador General of Tierra Firme. His bureaucratic experience made him exceptionally well informed on commercial matters in the Spanish colonies.

Geometrical Propositions Determining the Positions Assumed by Homogeneous Bodies which Float Freely, and at Rest, on a Fluid’s Surface, by the noted English mathematician George Atwood in volume LXXXVI, 1796, of the Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society, and awarded the Copley medal.

The plates show cross-sections of hulls and related diagrams. “This book by the famous Brazilian scientist is the only independent work he published. It is a translation of George Atwood’s book on shipbuilding and was published for the students of the Naval Academy. It is now very difficult to find.” - Borba de Moraes.

The translator and editor, António Pires da Silva Pontes (Nossa Senhora do Rosário in the comarca de Marianna, Minas Gerais, 1750-Rio de Janeiro, 1805), studied at Coimbra University (1769-1777), where he received a doctorate in mathematics. He was appointed along with Francisco José de Lacerda e Almeida and Ricardo Franco de Almeida Serra as a member of the commission to explore and establish the Brazilian frontier in the North. The findings of that expedition were only partly published; most remain in manuscripts held by the Biblioteca Nacional in Rio de Janeiro. The account of his exploration of the Rio Branco was printed in São Paulo in 1841 together with the Diário da viagem pelos capitanias do Pará, Rio Negro, Mato Grosso … by Francisco José de Lacerda e Almeida. Returning to Lisbon in 1790, Pontes taught at the Naval Academy. A friend of D. Rodrigo de Sousa Coutinho, later Conde de Linhares, the year this book was published he was named Governor of the Capitania of Espírito Santo, taking up his post in 1800. He was Capitão de Fragata in the Portuguese navy, and a member of the Real Academia das Ciências de Lisboa.

4. BAÇAN [or Bazan] Y GUZMAN, Álvaro de, Marquês de Sancta Cruz. Relacion de la infanteria y gente de guerra que se ha embarcado para la empresa y conquista de la Ysla Terceira …. Burgos: [Pedro de] Sátillana or Valladolid: en casa de Diego Fernandez de Cordova, (1582). 4°, disbound. Woodcut arms of the Marquês de Santa Cruz on title page. Top margin cropped close on first leaf, just touching the top of several letters on the title and the first line on the verso (loss of 1 word). Some soiling at corners. In good condition. Early signature in blank portion of title page scored. Number 86.4 in early ink in upper outer corner. (4 ll.). $4,600.00

This important Relacion recounts the defeat of D. Antonio’s forces at Terceira on 25-26 July, 1582, which ended organized resistance to Spanish rule under Philip II. The second work is sometimes found separately from the Relacion. A grandson of D. Manuel I of Portugal, D. António, Prior do Crato, had ruled as D. Antonio I in Portugal for 20 days in 1580 prior to defeat by the forces of Felipe II of Spain under the Duke of Alba at the Battle of Alcântara. D. Antonio then attempted to rule Portugal from the island of Terceira, in the Azores, where he established an opposition government, and even minted coin, a typical act of sovereignty and royalty. In 1581 the Côrtes of Tomar recognized the Spanish king as Filipe I of Portugal.

5. BARBOSA, José. Oração funebre nas exequias do Illmo. e Excelmo. Senhor Conde de Alva, D. João Diogo de Attaide do Conselho de Sua Magestade, e de Guerra, Capitão General da Armada Real. Celebradas no Recolhimento do Menino Deus em 28 de Mayo de 1740 .... Lisboa Occidental: Na Offic. de Antonio Isidoro da Fonseca, 1740. 4°, disbound. Engraved vignette on title page with monogram of the Conde de Alva beneath a count’s coronet. Larger engraved vignette headpiece on following leaf displaying his coats of arms beneath a count’s coronet, flanked by two putti. Another elegantly engraved headpiece with a martial theme on p. 1. Engraved initials on second preliminary leaf and p. 1. All engravings signed by Debrie. Light soiling on title page and final blank; some creasing; several short tears at gutter of title page (3 cm.). In good condition. Old arithmetical calculation in one margin, in ink. (6 ll.), 45 pp., (1 blank l.). $300.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this funeral oration for a captain-general of the Portuguese navy, dedicated to his widow and published at her order. The first half summarizes Ataide’s heroic career. He was a distinguished military commander during the War of the Spanish Succession, rising to the rank of lieutenant general, accompanying the Marquês das Minas during his campaign which culminated in the capture of Madrid on 25 June 1706. The second part describes the Conde de Alva’s Christian virtues.

Guilherme Francisco Lourenço Debrie (died 1755), who signed the vignettes and initials, was one of the most skilled and prolific engravers in Portugal under D. João V. He came to Portugal from his native France in 1728 along with his compatriots Miguel Le Bouteux (i.e. Jean Baptiste Michel le Bouteux, 1682-1764) and Pedro Massar de Rochefort and worked there until his death.

In 1747 the printer Antonio Isidoro da Fonseca briefly operated an unauthorized printing press in Brazil, producing the earliest documented Brazilian imprints.

José Barbosa (Lisbon, 1674-1750) joined the Theatine Order at age 13, and for some forty years was an esteemed preacher and a prolific author. He was among the first fifty members of the Academia Real de História and served as chronicler of the Casa de Bragança.

Rare Rio de Janeiro Imprint Dealing With Freedom of the Seas

6. [BARÈRE DE VIEUZAC, Bertrand]. A liberdade dos mares, ou o governo inglez descoberto; traduzido livremente do espanhol. 3 parts in 2 volumes bound together. Rio de Janeiro: Typ. de Miranda & Carneiro, 1833. 8°, original yellow printed wrappers (repair to front joint; some fraying and soiling; spine defective), vertical ink manuscript title on spine, text block edges sprinkled green. Woodcut laurel wreath on title pages. Typographical vignette on front wrapper. Overall in good condition. liv, 54, 92; 103, (6, 1 blank) pp., (1 l. errata).

3 parts in 2 volumes bound together. $800.00

First edition in Portuguese of Barère de Vieuzac’s La liberté des mers, ou le gouvernement anglais dévoilé, first published in Paris, 1798—an invective against the British government, whose maritime supremacy is described in such terms as “horrors,” “monstrosities,” “despotism” and “tyranny.” Barère begins with general comments on maritime power and on the evils of the British government, moves on to prove that the British government destroys natural law and the law of nations, and argues that its continued existence is incompatible with the security and peace of other European nations. The translation from Barère’s work is acknowledged on p. xx.

In the preface “A todos os povos amantes da liberdade,” the unidentified translator added about 10 pages (pp. xxi-xxx) to Barère’s list of British sins, referring to actions in Russia, Bengal, the United States, Havana, and Puerto Rico, and in Spain during the Peninsular War. The latest reference in this section is to the execution of Gomes Freire de Andrade and others in the aborted 1817 independence attempt in Brazil. Barère himself charged the British with a multitude of sins in this introductory section, e.g., that the British were responsible for all the evils of the French Revolution, that they fomented rebellion in South America, that they armed Indians in the Americas and encouraged them to attack non-British settlers (the Indians on Lake Ontario and on the Ohio River are mentioned specifically), that they supported the rebels in the Vendée, that they aided and abetted pirates, that they exiled Irish and Scots to Botany Bay, and that they consistently maltreated prisoners of war (see pp. vii-xviii).

Barère (1755-1841) was born at Tarbes and practiced law until elected to the States-General in 1789. There he quickly gained a reputation as one of the most indefatigable and radical members of the revolutionary Assembly. Elected president of the Convention in December 1792, Barère presided over the trial and execution of Louis XVI. His rhetorical style earned him the sobriquet “l’Anacréon de la guillotine.” Narrowly escaping deportation after Robespierre’s fall, Barère was eventually banished to Belgium in 1816 as a regicide, only to return after the revolution of 1830. His many published works include poetry and translations in addition to political commentary.

There is some confusion about the authorship and publishing history of the work. Palau n° 137771 calls this Portuguese edition a translation of his n° 137769, which is a translation from French into Spanish—yet he gives the date of the Spanish edition as 1835 (i.e. 2 years after this work appeared). At n° 24149, however, Palau cites this as a translation of Barère. Innocencio V, 185 states that the work was originally published in 1804 and was written in France or by someone under French influence, but does not identify the author. NUC cites the work under Barère’s name and lists several Spanish-language editions published between 1820 and 1842. Our edition is a translation from one of the Spanish editions.

Chile’s Minister of Finance Rants About Chile’s Finances
Including the State of the Chilean Navy

8. [BENAVENTE, Diego José]. Memoria que el Ministro Secretario de Hacienda presenta al Congreso de la Republica de Chile. Diciembre de 1824.
Santiago de Chile: Imprenta Nacional, December 1824. 4°, disbound. A few light stains. In good to very good condition. 14 pp., (2 ll.).

$1,500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Benavente opens this bitter report to the Chilean Congress on the state of government finances by stating that there is nothing satisfactory to report and that Congress’s instructions to him were either impossible to fulfill or ridiculous. He complains that his attempts to solve the financial crisis have not been appreciated: ‘Nunca se valoriza justamente lo que ha hecho un Gobierno; pero siempre se critica acervamente lo que ha dejado de hacer’ (p. 9). In the course of the discussion he mentions the expedition to Chiloé (whose capture in 1826 marked the end of the struggle for Chilean independence), the state of the Chilean navy, the suppression of an Indian rebellion in the south (pp. 8-9), and the monopoly on tobacco and other goods held by Portales, Céa y Compañía. Scattered throughout are facts and figures, e.g., the revenue produced under Spanish rule by tobacco sales.

Having supported José Miguel Carrera in the War of Independence, Benavente (1790-1867) fled to Buenos Aires while O’Higgins was in power. From 1823-1825, under Ramón Freire, he served as minister of Finance, but his support of the Portales, Céa y Compañía monopoly made him unpopular. In the 1830s he opposed Portales. From 1834 to 1861 he was elected senator nine times.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Admiral Blanco Encalada (1790-1876) defends his ability as a naval officer by quoting reports by others of campaigns at Valparaiso, Chiloé, and Valdivia. He mentions O’Higgins, Lord Cochrane, Ramón Freire, and San Martín. At the end are several reports he submitted to Bernardo O’Higgins in 1818. The aspersions on Blanco Encalada were cast by Charles Whiting Wooster, who later became a rear admiral. The year after this pamphlet was published, Blanco Encalada led a naval expedition against the Peru-Bolivian Confederation, but was forced to surrender.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this eyewitness account of a naval action off the coast of Morea, in the Peloponnesus, Greece, during the Seventh Ottoman-Venetian War (1714-1718). Venice had lost the Peloponnesus to the Ottomans in 1715, but while she was unable to fight the Turks on land, she was still a power at sea. By 1717 Venice had gained the financial support of Pope Clement XI, and several Catholic rulers sent ships to Venice’s aid. The Portuguese sent a small fleet, which arrived at Corfu on June 10 to rendezvous with the Venetians and the Knights of Malta. The author focuses on the preparation of the Portuguese fleet, its commanders, the strategy of the combined fleet, confusion in the Venetian command, and the damages to the Portuguese ships at the Battle of Matapan, on the southern coast of Greece.

The battle was a strategically decisive Ottoman victory, since it totally frustrated the Venetian efforts to regain the Peloponnesus. The Ottomans lost no ships compared to three Venetian and allied ships sunk, and much damage done to others.

Pedro de Sousa de Castelo Branco (Lisbon, 1678-1755), present at the action described here, is listed as the author by Innocência. He signed (in print) the dedication (leaf A2 recto) with the pseudonym D. Inofre Chirino. Castello Branco was a Commendador da Ordem de Cristo and served in the army and navy, reaching the rank of general and of governor of Setubal. He was the translator of the Abbé de Vallemont’s Elementos da história, in 5 volumes, 1734-1751.

Paper read at the Centro de Estudos de Marinha on 16 June, 1971.

Hernâni [António] Cidade (Redondo 1887-Évora 1975) is best known as an author of literary and cultural history and of literary biography. For a half century, he was a major force in the cultural life of Portugal. Cidade taught school in Coimbra, Leiria, Porto and Lisbon before moving on to an illustrious career in higher education at the Universities of Porto and Lisbon. In his youth Cidade was linked to the modernist movement, having been involved with the reviews Água and Seara Nova, among others. He also collaborated in reviews such as those of the Faculdades de Letras of both Lisbon and Porto, newspapers (especially O Primeiro de Janeiro), and numerous collective projects such as the Grande enciclopédia portuguesa e brasileira and Dicionário de literatura. With Joaquim de Carvalho and Mário de Azevedo Gomes he edited the Diário liberal (Lisbon, 1934-1935); with Reynaldo dos Santos and Bernardo Marques he founded Colôquio—revista de artes e letras (1959-1970), and with Jacinto do Prado Coelho, in 1971, Colôquio / Letras (these last two published by the Gulbenkian Foundation).

Provenance: Américo Cortez Pinto (1896-1979), physician, writer, poet and historian, native of the freguesia de Cortes in the concelho de Leiria. Américo Cortez Pinto studied at Coimbra, interned at Leira, served as a parliamentary deputy, a member of the Lisbon municipal council, and inspector of health studies, among other posts. He contributed to literary reviews such as A Tradição, Contemporânea, A Galera, Letras e Artes, and Ícaro, of which he was one of the founders, along with Ernesto Gonçalves, Cabral do Nascimento, and Luís Vieira de Castro. In addition to a considerable output of poetry, prose, literary and historical works, he is best known for the polemical Da famosa arte da imprimissão: da imprensa em Portugal às cruzadas d’Além-Mar (1948), in which he defended the priority of Leiria in Portuguese Christian typography. While Chaves currently is agreed to have been the earliest Portuguese Christian printing site, Cortez Pinto’s investigations and conclusions regarding the diffusion of printing in Africa and Asia by the Portuguese remain valuable. Hernâni Cidade was one of Cortez Pinto’s closest friends. Others were Afonso Lopes Vieira, Carlos Queiróz, Lino António, António José Saraiva, Sebastião Pestana, and Mário Saa. First Edition in Portuguese. Vice-Admiral Cuthbert Collingwood (1748-1810), commander-in-chief of Britain’s Mediterranean Fleet, welcomes Spain as an ally and urges Spaniards to continue fighting ‘este homem vil, transgressor de todos os direitos.’ Since the Battle of Trafalgar in 1805, six French ships under the command of Admiral Rosily had been bottled up in the harbor at Cadiz. In June 1808, after the Spanish bombarded them, Rosily surrendered. The contribution of the British under Collingwood was to maintain the blockade so that the French ships could not escape.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this newsletter relating the battle at sea between a Genoese warship commanded by Captain Domingos Castellini and six ships of Barbary pirates. Every sailor and passenger as well as the 30 Swiss Grenadiers aboard the Genoese ship were given weapons, and somehow managed to fight off Moors armed with falchions who were attempting to board the ship or to blow up the powder magazine. According to the ship’s chaplain, the Moors suffered 1,200 dead and many wounded, while the Genoese lost 16 dead, with 30 wounded.

FIRST, UNAUTHORIZED EDITION of the memoirs of one of the most illustrious French seamen and corsairs. Duguay-Trouin did not wish them published until after his death, and the authorized quarto edition of 1740 lacks many details of the author’s youthful adventures, which he suppressed at the request of Cardinal Fleury.

In 1710, DuClerc led a French expedition against Rio de Janeiro, but he and the greater part of his force were captured. Duguay-Trouin assembled a larger fleet in the following year and again attacked Rio, occupying the city for some two months. It is interesting to compare Duguay-Trouin’s Relation, 1712, with his Memoires, 1730, regarding the attack on the port and city of Rio de Janeiro and the ransacking of the churches’ treasures: in the later work he explains at great length how he returned those treasures to the Jesuits. On the expedition against Brazil and the attack on Rio de Janeiro in 1711, see pp. 231-83.

Internally fine. (4 ll.), 290 pp.  $3,500.00

FIRST, UNAUTHORIZED EDITION of the memoirs of one of the most illustrious French seamen and corsairs. Duguay-Trouin did not wish them published until after his death, and the authorized quarto edition of 1740 lacks many details of the author’s youthful adventures, which he suppressed at the request of Cardinal Fleury. The introductory letter, dated March 7, 1730, is signed by P. Villepontoux.

In 1710, DuClerc led a French expedition against Rio de Janeiro, but he and the greater part of his force were captured. Duguay-Trouin assembled a larger fleet in the following year and again attacked Rio, occupying the city for some two months. It is interesting to compare Duguay-Trouin’s Relation, 1712, with his Memoires, 1730, regarding the attack on the port and city of Rio de Janeiro and the ransacking of the churches’ treasures: in the later work he explains at great length how he returned those treasures to the Jesuits.

First authorized edition of the memoirs of one of the most illustrious French seamen and corsairs. Although Duguay-Trouin did not wish them published until after his death (in 1736), the Memoires appeared in an unauthorized edition of Amsterdam, 1730. While this authorized quarto edition of 1740 lacks many details of the author’s youthful adventures, which he suppressed at the request of Cardinal Fleury, it was edited from the author’s corrected manuscript by P.F. Godart de Beauchamps-Barbier, with additions by the author’s nephew, Luc de La Garde-Jazier. Borba terms this edition “the most sought after one, not only because of its especial beauty, but also because it contains the definitive text.”

In 1710, DuClerc led a French expedition against Rio de Janeiro, but the and the greater part of his force were captured. Duguay-Trouin assembled a larger fleet in the following year and again attacked Rio, occupying the city for some two months. It is interesting to compare Duguay-Trouin’s Relation, 1712, with his Memoires, regarding the attack on the port and city of Rio de Janeiro and the ransacking of the churches’ treasures: in the later work he explains at great length how he returned those treasures to the Jesuits. On the expedition against Brazil and the attack on Rio de Janeiro in 1711, see pp. 157-200; pp. 273-84 contain a list of all officers and men participating in the Brazil expedition.

The Memoires is a splendid example of French book making, finely printed on thick paper. The highly accomplished engravings, by J.P. Le Bas and A. Coquart, include a portrait of the author, a view of a French man-of-war with parts labeled, four large folding views of naval engagements, and a folding plan of Rio de Janeiro and vicinity in 1711, with Duguay-Trouin’s ships attacking. The vignette on the title page shows a putto with a trident perched on a globe that rests on a galley; beneath the galley are two sea monsters. Page 1 has a vignette of Neptune holding his trident, surrounded by minions with naval accoutrements.

This 1740 edition was followed in the same year by quarto and octavo editions published in Amsterdam by Pierre Mortier, who had earlier published the unauthorized 1730 edition. Borba de Moraes had seen later editions of 1741, 1746, 1748, 1756, 1769, and 1773, each with the author’s portrait, five plates and a map.

Provincial Governments Cannot Maintain Warships

18. ELIZONDO, Diego Antonio, Francisco R. de Vicuña, Juan Fariñas, and J.M. Novoa. Informe. [text begins:] La Comisión al escaminar el antecedente [sic] proyecto de reglamento provisorio para las provincias, si bien encuentra en el cuanto puede apetecerse por estas para formar su Constitución .... N.p.: n.pr., dated 1 March 1827. Folio (31 x 21.5 cm.), unbound. Caption title. Uncut. In fine condition. (2 ll.) $500.00

In the 1820s, Chileans engaged in an ongoing dispute over whether the nation should have a strong central government or should be a loose confederation of provinces. This proposal includes lists of what the provincial assemblies will be allowed to do and what they are restricted from doing. Among the provincial powers are supervising education, electing certain judges, disbursing pensions, and organizing provincial militias. Among the actions forbidden to such assemblies are setting restrictions on trade, engaging in foreign affairs, maintaining warships, and granting sanctuary to those wanted for crimes in other provinces.

The document bears the printed signatures of Diego Antonio Elizondo, Francisco R. de Vicuña, Juan Fariñas, and J.M. Novoa.

Price of a Chilean Merchant Marine Includes Salt Monopoly

19. Esposición que dirijen al Supremo Gobierno de la República los armadores i navieros nacionales, esponiendo la situación de la marina mercante, i proponiendo medidas dirijidas a su protección i fomento. Valparaiso: Imprenta del Mercurio, 1845. Folio (26.5 x 17.5 cm.), disbound (traces of early wrappers). Small woodcut vignette of ships’ stores on title page. Good to very good condition. 24 pp., (2 ll.). $500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. In an 1845 address to the Chilean legislature (quoted on p. 3), President Manuel Bulnes lamented Chile’s lack of a merchant marine. In this document Chilean ship owners propose ways that the government can improve the situation. They urge that in order to be considered part of the merchant marine, a ship must be built in Chile, wholly owned by Chileans, have a Chilean captain, and have a crew that is predominantly Chilean. The owners suggest that in order to keep a larger merchant marine busy, a law should be passed that goods produced on the west side of the Americas can only be delivered to Chilean ports by Chilean ships, and that the merchant marine be given a monopoly on the salt trade. If such measures are passed, Chile will dominate the Pacific and the Strait of Magellan, and will not even have to fear a canal through Panama (p. 21).

The tables at the end list ships by type (frigate, bark, brigantine, schooner) with the name, weight, and country of origin (or port within Chile).

In the period of stability and peace following the War of the Confederation, President Manuel Bulnes (held office 1841-1851) encouraged educational, cultural, and industrial expansion. The University of Chile was founded in Santiago in 1842 and the settlement of Fuerte Bulnes was established in 1843, to enforce Chilean sovereignty over the Strait of Magellan.

20. Estatuos do Monte Pio Official dos servidores do estado precedidos do decreto que os approvou. Lisbon: Imprensa Nacional, 1870. 8°, original green printed wrappers. Steel engraved Portuguese royal arms on front wrapper and title page. In fine condition. Oval stamp in upper margin of front wrapper and in upper outer corner of title page of B.M. Tavares de Proença and J. de Saldanha Oliveira e Sousa, a son of the Conde de Rio Maior. Ten lines of penciled notes on final blank page; various accounts and brief notes in pencil on blank outside rear wrapper. 17 pp. $90.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The Monte Pio Official was established to provide pensions for families of army and navy officers, civil servants and functionaries of the ministries and of the municipal councils.

Provenance: D. José de Saldanha Oliveira e Souza, who also used the name José Luiz de Saldanha (1839-1912), was a son of D. João de Saldanha Oliveira Juzarte Figueira e Sousa, 3º conde de Rio Maior, and brother of António José Luís de Saldanha Oliveira Juzarte Figueira e Sousa, 4º conde and 1º marquês de Rio Maior. A chemist and mineralogist, parliamentary deputy, and high government official, he studied mathematics and philosophy at Coimbra University, wrote on subjects as varied as agriculture, finance, and engravings, and amassed an important library. He was a devoted proponent of progress in the national agricultural sector, which he considered one of the primary sources of public wealth. See Grande enciclopédia XIX, 402; Innocêncio XIII, 66-7; Aditamentos, pp. 254-5. The Casa da Anunciada library of the counts of Rio Maior was one of the best private libraries ever formed in Portugal. It was dispersed for the most part not long after the April 1974 Portuguese revolution.

SEÑORES DIPUTADOS.

La reunión de los Representantes del Pueblo en esta angosta América, es el momento inspirado de la Patria para aplicar remedios a los terribles males que la afligen; y jamás Gobierno alguno se vió en circunstancias de destruir con tan ardiente empeño como lo hizo el Gobierno en la crisis actual. Vosotros, pues, señores, a establecer la Nación, que desgracias que no era fácil proveer amaga reducir a la nada. Seis años de un gobierno coronado en todos sus empeños con triunfos felices, respetado entre los extranjos, y temido al menos en nuestro territorio, habían dado al Directorio poder todo el poder de hacer bien. Al impulso de las armas, y a la resistencia de pasiones que acompañó los primeros momentos de toda revolución, había sucedido la calma de la paz. El pueblo conocía, que sus derechos no consistían en el uso de un poder ilimitado, y ejercido arbitrariamente que podía precipitarlos en la anarquía; y que su soberanía fijaba en el orden y en establecer instituciones seguras, que bajo el imperio de las Leyes se defendieran de la arbitrariedad. Pero por una desventura que acompañó al hilo de las Naciones, faltó tino para hacer el bien al Gobierno que mejor pudo hacerlo. El descenso público rompió la barrera de la opresión, y agitó las pasiones en este impetuoso choque contra el anterior gobierno, angustiado, que si no se evitaba antes del término en que llegaba a ser irresistible, sometía a la Patria en el sepulcro, llevando tras sí el recordado de dos años de gloria y de sacrificios perdidos. A vosotros, pues, señores, Padres del Pueblo se encarga alejar la confusión, la desorganización, el desorden de la Patria. Esto es el preciso y el grave objeto con que nos llamadas. La Junta no teme decirlo. Chile nunca se vio en crisis más peligrosa. Nuestra resolución presenta variaciones en que nunca se ha conocido todos los errores e Inadecuaciones con que es copia el espíritu humano; mas en un Gobierno siempre concentrado, y en la esfera alta de todos sus hijos, aprende la Patria un dicho a las desgracias que iban a inmediatas. Hoy por la primera vez impone el grito de desesperación, y esta vez más que a los años debe hacer el corazón de los Patriotas. La prudencia, en generoso despertamiento de intereses subalternos que nada significan del idea general de Estado, y los principios de la mas exacta igualdad y justicia, evitan las desolaciones, las divisiones que van a hacer a los pueblos maldice la hora en que salieron de su tranquilidad.

Luego se cumplirán dos meses a que el voto de nuestros con- diziados nos llamó a encargarnos de la Administracion pública, y no ha pasado un día de este corto tiempo, que no haya sido señalado con alguna circunstancia que agravase la amargura de nuestro
FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this substantial overview of the state of Chile after the War of Independence, including the state of the public treasury, foreign affairs, the navy, and the army. The signers were the members of the Junta de Gobierno (Agustín de Eyzaguirre, José Miguel Infante, Fernando Errázuriz, plus its secretary, Mariano Egaña), who after O’Higgins abdicated on January 28, 1823, were given control of the government until General Ramón Freire arrived in Santiago in late March. In this document written two months later, they describe the disagreements among factions in various parts of the country (Concepción, Coquimbo, Chiloé, Quillota, and Valdivia are mentioned) and conclude by stating that Chile needs to be run by a single leader - and that none of them feels qualified to do it! “La razon, la experiencia, y la opinion pública están de acuerdo en que á uno solo debe confiarse el poder ejecutivo. Ni los tres, ni alguno de nosotros nos consideramos capaces de llevar al termino el triunfo del órden” (p. 8).

Lisbon: Na Imprensa Nacional, 1835. 8°, contemporary boards with leaf-and-floral patterned paper (slightly warped, edges bumped, half of spine chipped off, front hinge weak), green endleaves, all text block edges gilt, green-and-white silk ribbon place marker. Small wood-engraving of arms of Portugal on the title page. Interally fine; overall in very good condition. 74 pp., 5 folding tables. $600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this account of how the Miguelistas were repelled from the Liberal stronghold of Ilha Terceira, which became the headquarters of D. Pedro’s forces and of D. Maria II’s Conselho de Regencia. Innocêncio notes that the Memoria is valuable as an eyewitness account: Furtado was at the time a lieutenant colonel of Engineers serving in the Azores.

In this work, written to counter a letter of João Bernardo Rocha Loureiro, Portugal’s cronista-mor, Furtado reprints a letter he wrote to Rocha Loureiro as well as letters and decrees from the Conde de Vila Flor (later Duque de Terceira) and the Duque de Palmela. At the end are 5 large folding tables giving details of the actions, including the officers who disembarked with the Conde de Villa Flor at Vila da Praia on 22 June 1829, the status of the fortifications and who was commanding them, the troops at Villa Flor’s disposal, the naval forces fighting for D. Miguel, and the distribution of troops on ships. Furtado later rose to be commandante geral of the Engineers. He was born in 1777 in S. Paulo de Loanda, where his father, Luis Candido Cordeiro Pinheiro Furtado, was marechal de campo.

Description of Portuguese Ships and Armadas

29. HOMEM, Manoel. Memoria da disposiçam das armas castelhanas, que injustamente, invadirão o Reyno de Portugal no anno de 1580 .... Lisbon: Officina Craesbekiana, 1655. 4°, contemporary limp vellum, fore-edge cover extensions (lacks ties). Large woodcut tailpiece on Q7r. Some browning. Tear on M4 with loss of 3-4 letters on 5 lines, recto and verso. Overall in very good condition. Early ownership inscription of Manoel Marques da Silva ‘cirurgião’ on front flyleaf, stating that he purchased the volume in Lisbon in 1735 for 480 reis. (22 ll.), 247, (6) pp., lacking the final blank leaf. $2,000.00

FIRST EDITION. Part history and part harangue, the Memoria advocates that Portugal keep a strong navy, citing not only the battle against the Spanish in the 1580s (which is purportedly the focus of the book), but also the strength of the navy under earlier Portuguese monarchs. Homem lists 44 armadas sent out by D. Manuel and 41 sent out by D. João III, each with its purpose and commander. Chapters 34-36 describe the sixteenth-century São João, the largest warship of its time. There is also a section on the fortifications of Lisbon in the 1580s (chapters 12-18). The extensive dedication to the fourth Duke of Aveiro was suppressed from the second edition, published in 1763, probably because the seventh Duke of Aveiro had been executed only a few years earlier for his part (real or alleged) in the conspiracy to assassinate D. José I.

Homem (1599-1662) entered the Dominican order in 1615, earned the degree of Master of Theology, and accompanied the Marques de Cascaes, D. Alvaro Pires de Castro, on his 1644 embassy to Paris. Homem’s description of that embassy was published in Paris, 1644 as Descripção da jornada e embaixada extraordinaria que fez a França D. Alvaro Pires de Castro.

Wood-engraved ornament on title page of various devices, including a divider (artist’s tools?). Light foxing. In good to very good condition. 15 pp. $600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Langlois’s panoramic painting of the French siege of Algiers was among the earliest historical panoramic paintings. In 1830 King Charles X, hoping to distract his disgruntled French subjects, ordered an invasion of the notorious pirate haven of Algiers. The king was deposed by the July Revolution at almost the same time as Algiers fell, but Algeria remained under French control until 1962, and Langlois’s panorama was a major influence on France’s conception of its new colonial possession.

Langlois participated in the Siege of Algiers in 1830, returned for further research in 1832, and began exhibiting his panoramic painting in 1833. Like most huge historical panoramas, the _Panorama d’Alger_ has been lost. What we know of it derives from surviving sketches and from this pamphlet published for the benefit of visitors to the spectacle. Jal gives a one-page summary of the history of Algiers, then describes the panorama, which included scenes inside the Dey’s palace and treasury and a view over the city and surrounding countryside from one of the terraces of the Kasbah, with the French fleet in the bay. The ships are named and specific buildings and landmarks within Algiers are pointed out. To make the work more vivid, several quotes from Algerian rulers are included.

After training at the École Polytechnique, Jean-Charles Langlois (1789-1870) became an officer in Napoleon’s army. Severely wounded at Waterloo, he retired with the rank of colonel. During the Restoration he studied art with Girodet-Trioson, producing portraits and history paintings and illustrating a military and picturesque history of Spain. But it was panoramas of battle that became his passion, because he felt that they offered the most intense experiences life could offer. Langlois’s novelty was that he not only represented the scenes involved, but made viewers feel as if they were living through the action. The first of these panoramas was on the naval battle of Navarino, an 1827 French victory over the Turks. The Panorama d’Alger was the second.

Many of Langlois’s works were destroyed during the Siege of Paris in 1870-1871. The paintings that survived were transferred in 1888 to the Musée des Beaux-Arts de Caen, where many of them were destroyed during the Battle for Caen in 1944.

The pamphlet is signed in print ‘A. Jal’ on p. 15. Augustin Jal (Lyon, 1795-Vernon [Eure], 1873), writer, archivist and historian, was author of the authoritative and still invaluable Dictionnaire critique de biographie et d’histoire, 1872, which was based on research done before the massive destruction of Paris archives in 1871. After a brief stint in the military (he was discharged for propos subversifs) he turned to art criticism and journalism. As correspondent for the Constitutionnel Jal reported on the capture of Algiers in 1830, making him uniquely qualified to write this description of Langlois’s panorama. Jal eventually became the official historiographer of the Marine and conservator of its archives.

The Problem with Compasses on Steamships

34. KOL, Joaquim José Cecilia. Conselho de Guerra a que respondeu o Capitão-Tenente d’Armada ... pela perda da vapor Duque de Saldanha que foi do seu comando. Lisbon: Typographia na Rua dos Douradores, 1855. Large 8°, original pink printed wrappers (soiled, creased, 5 x 2.5 cm. at lower outer corner of front wrapper missing, spine chipped, stitching loosening). Some browning, edges curling. In good condition. 54 pp., 1 folding table, (1 blank l.), large folding map [80.5 x 60.5 cm.]. $300.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Capitão-Tenente Kol was court-martialed over the loss of the steamship Duque de Saldanha, which ran aground under his command. Included here are summaries of a substantial number of witnesses, the interrogation of Kol, and his sentence. The shipwreck, claims Kol, was due to a combination of an error in the ship’s timekeeping, an error in a map, and a deviation in the compass. Kol claims that the error in the compass was due to the fact that steamships such as the Duque de Saldanha were largely made of iron. He cites statistics of compass deviations recorded on British steamships from 1847 to 1853. Also included are translations of articles on compass deviation by William Walker (pp. 31-33) and A.B. Belcher (pp. 33-43).

The large folding map at the end is titled ‘Carta da Costa de Portugal, por Marino Miguel Franzini.’ It shows the coast of Portugal from Cabo Silleiro (just north of the Spanish border) south to Peniche, which is 100 km. north of Lisbon. Franzini (1779-1861), who served in numerous high posts in the Portuguese navy and government, was a pioneer of meteorology in Portugal. He was a member of the Academia Real das Ciências de Lisboa and a Grã-Cruz of the Ordem Militar de Cristo.

Joaquim José Cecilia Kol (1805-1880) rose to the rank of rear admiral and was a member of the Supremo Tribunal de Guerra e Marinha. For many years he was Lisbon’s capitão do porto. He also served as general secretary for Portuguese India and was a commander of the Ordem de S. Bento de Aviz, a cavalier of the Ordem de Christo, and an official of the Ordem da Rosa (Brazil). Aside from this work, he also published Mapa geral estatistico e historico da India portugueza, contendo a situação geographica dos principaes pontos do litoral, divisão territorial e sua extensão, Nova Goa, 1850.

36. LIMA, João Silverio de. Oração funebre nas exequias do Serenissimo Senhor Infante Dom Pedro Carlos de Bragança e Bourbon, que fez celebrar a Academia Real das Sciencias na Igreja de Nossa Senhora dos Martyres em Lisboa, recitada por .... Lisbon: Na Typografia da mesma Academia [Real das Sciencias], 1813. 4°, later plain brown wrappers. Small woodcut vignette (the Academia’s logo) on title page. Uncut and mostly unopened. Upper edge of title page darkened, but otherwise clean and crisp. In near-fine condition. Printed on papel selado embossed with a 10-reis stamp. 30 pp., (1 blank l.). $200.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The eulogy of the Infante D. Pedro Carlos (1786-1812) begins on p. 8, and includes mention of his activities as admiral on the voyage of the royal family to Brazil in 1807, as well as his participation in the Academia Real das Sciencias.

D. Pedro Carlos was a grandson of D. Carlos III of Spain, and the only surviving child of the Infante D. Gabriel de Bourbon. His mother was the Portuguese Infanta D. Maria Ana Vitória Josefa de Bragança (1768-1788), eldest daughter of D. Pedro III and D. Maria I. In 1810 in Rio de Janeiro, he married D. Maria Teresa de Bragança, daughter of the Prince Regent D. João, the future D. João VI of Portugal, and his wife the Infanta D. Carlota Joaquina de Bourbon, daughter of D. Carlos IV of Spain. Their only child, D. Sebastião Gabriel de Bourbon e Bragança, played a significant role in the Carlist Wars.

P. João Silverio de Lima (Lisbon, 1751-1829) joined the Franciscan order in 1771, but by 1782 he was a secular presbyter teaching rational and moral philosophy and prior of S. Julião in Santarém. He was also a member of the Academia Real das Sciencias, at one of whose sessions he delivered this eulogy.

As quais operações se notão desde o dia 17 de Maio de 1829, até 16 d’Agosto do dito anno, em que a esquadra, e tropas se dissolverão, e separaráão.* Lisbon: Na Impressão de João Nunes Esteves, 1829. 4°, disbound. Typographical vignette on title page. Woodcut floral vignette on p. viii. Brownstain on final 7 leaves, small at first but becoming increasingly larger, not obscuring text. Barely in good condition. Two ink signatures in blank portions of title page, one contemporary, the other later. viii, 35 pp., (1 l. errata). $150.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this relation of the Miguelistas’ ill-fated expedition to Terceira to quell the adherents of D. Maria II. The author of the pamphlet is anonymous, but Innocêncio is very definite in his attribution of the vitriolic “advertencia” at the beginning to the great polymath and champion of the Miguelistas, P. José Agostinho de Macedo. According to Ernesto do Canto, Father Macedo wrote the advertencia and edited the volume, using documents furnished by Coronel Lemos. Rosa Coelho is heartily censured.

39. [MEADE, Margaret]. Margaret Meade. [To accompany bill H.R. No. 183.] January 14, 1834. Mr. Archer, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, made the following Report: The Committee on Foreign Affairs, to which has been referred the petition of Margaret Meade, widow and executrix of Richard W. Meade, have had the same under consideration, and report: .... N.p.: n.pr., 1834. 23d Congress, 1st Session. Rep. No. 167. Ho. of Reps. Large 8°, disbound from a larger volume, with part of the calf spine and red morocco label remaining (‘R / / Com / / 1st’). Caption title. Scattered light foxing. In good condition. 216 pp. $100.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION in this form; some of the supporting documents were published separately. The widow of Richard Worsam Meade (1778-1828) petitioned the United States government to pay the money owed to Meade, and now to his estate. Meade was United States naval agent from 1806 to 1816 at Cadiz, Spain. He had loaned money to the Spanish government during the Peninsular War. By the Florida Treaty of 1819, the United States had agreed to pay the legal claims of American citizens against Spain, to a maximum of $5 million; so Meade’s estate was pressing their claim with the House of Representatives. Meade was one of the two Navy officers who intercepted the famed slave ship Amistad and attempted to claim the slaves as salvage property for themselves.

In 1812, Meade published Ruina escandalosa intentada por la Regencia de las Españas contra Don Ricardo Meade, Cadiz: Imprenta Tormentaria, 1812 (translated here, pp. 91-93). In it, Meade tells how he let the Spanish government borrow money (“Ansioso de contribuir , por mi parte, al éxito feliz de la justa causa de los Españoles”), to the point where his business was in peril. He laments that the corrupt government treasurer has refused to pay him moneys owed. “Mi causa es la causa de todo comerciante, y si por una estúpida indolencia no se mira como una injusticia propia la que se me hace sufrir, y la opinion pública no reclama su reparacion, los Españoles, por mas que se gloríen de su libertad y de su Constitucion, en el hecho serán tan esclavos como lo rean en tiempo de Godoy ....” The extensive documents supporting Meade’s claim, which occupy most of the volume, include translations of numerous documents from 1812, with a few as late as 1819 and 1820.

Meade’s wife and executrix was Margaret Coats Butler Meade (1782-1852). Two of Meade’s sons were born in Cadiz and became members of the U.S. military. Richard Worsam Meade II (1807-1870) rose to the rank of captain in the Navy during the Civil War, and Major General George Gordon Meade (1815-1872) was the victor of Gettysburg.

(Lisbon): [Colophon]: Na Officina de Antonio Rodrigues Galhardo, (1790). Folio (29.5 x 20.5 cm.), disbound. Large woodcut royal Portuguese arms on first leaf recto above caption title. Lightly dampstained at foot. A few small, very minor wormholes in blank margins, never affecting text. Overall in good condition. (2 ll.).

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Gives ranks of new naval officers, as well as newly retired officers, with their retirement ranks and pensions. Signed in print by Martinho de Mello e Castro, 4 January 1790.

Very Rare Plymouth Printing

FIRST and ONLY EDITION? This tract appears to have been printed late Winter or early Spring 1829, demonstrating pressures to change British policy from favoring the absolutist D. Miguel to the liberal side of D. Pedro, Emperor of Brazil and his daughter, D. Maria II. This led to the victory of the liberals at the Battle of Praia da Vitória on 11 August 1829. The text describes a motion regarding Portuguese affairs brought up in the British Parliament by Mr. Mackintosh on 16 February 1829 regarding the British naval blockade of the Azores and the discussion that ensued. There follows much about events on Terceira. Mentioned among the ships bringing Portuguese emigrants and armaments from Plymouth to the port of Angra were two from the U.S.A., the James Cropper, and the Wade.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION? Narrative of commission entrusted to Commodore (later Rear Admiral) Donald Campbell, commander of the Affonso de Albuquerque, by Lord Horatio Nelson to approach the Pasha of Tripoli in order to negotiate peaceful relations with Portugal on behalf of the crown of that country. A detailed account of Campbell’s movements and successful diplomatic dealings under Nelson’s guidance with the Tripolitan Dey (Bey) to secure in a treaty the same peaceful relations with Portugal as those that currently existed between Britain and Tripoli. Campbell’s negotiations also include an attempt to secure the release of some French prisoners captured by Tripolitan corsairs and confined in the city.

Hurricane in Martinique Destroys French Warships

FIRST and ONLY EDITION? Describes a hurricane that left the buildings and farms of Martinique in ruins, and killed many inhabitants. Several French warships were damaged or destroyed, and it is noted in passing that attacks by the English (then involved in the Seven Years’ War against France) had increased, since French ships could no longer defend the island.

[Santiago de Chile]: Imprenta del Gobierno, dated 5 May 1818. Folio (32 x 22 cm.), disbound. Caption title. Uncut. In good to very good condition. 6 pp. $3,000.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this substantial manifesto issued over the printed signatures of Bernardo O’Higgins and Antonio José de Irisarri, barely 3 months after the Battle of Chacabuco had restored Chilean independence and O’Higgins had become head of the government. O’Higgins summarizes the triumph of Chile over Peru and argues that despite the high cost of waging war, Peru must be liberated from Spanish rule before Chile can be truly secure: “Lima no puede substraerse por mas tiempo á la ley general que obedece la America, y es preciso que sus principios se uniformen con los que han proclamado Chile, y las Provincias Unidas.” He describes San Martin’s exploits in the south and the activities of the Chilean navy. O’Higgins also expresses high hopes for the upcoming congress in Santiago. For the sake of accurate representation at the congress, he will be issuing orders for a nationwide census.

The co-signer, Antonio José de Irisarri (1786-1886), one of the fathers of Chilean journalism, served as interim supreme director of Chile for a few days in 1814. When this manifesto was issued, he was minister of Government and Foreign Affairs under O’Higgins.

MANIFIESTO DEL
GOBIERNO A LOS PUEBLOS
QUE FORMAN EL ESTADO DE CHILE

Todos los Pueblos de la tierra tienen un derecho imprescriptible al establecimiento de su libertad; pero para consiguir dicha libertad, por que los grandes sacrificios que ella exige, son superiores al terrore que inspira el despotismo a las almas débiles. Ellas saben que el primer paso en este empeño es resolverse a perderlo todo antes que sucumbir en ella; y que para reformar las instituciones políticas de un pueblo, es preciso que la mayor parte renuncie su existencia, abandonando sus intereses, por su tranquilidad, y comprometida muchas veces su misma reputación.

En el curso de una revolución calculada para invadir el destino de la mitad del mundo y quema del mundo entero, es bien difícil que haya un solo individuo que a su turno deje de pasar por la alternativa de todos aquellos sacrificios. El pueblo Chileno ha conocido ya por su propia experiencia la necesidad de correr este periodo intermedio de esclavos y vicisitudes, antes de consolidar las reformas que exige el siglo en que vivimos, y las acutales relaciones del género humano. Pero en el cuadro de los horrores de una guerra sostenida con feracidad por el Gobierno Español, al pesar de las circunstancias en que cae el choque de las prisiones tupérridas de un país naciente; nada ha podido hacerse sentir los sentimientos que movió en la celebre revolución del 18 de septiembre del año diez. Desde aquella epoca hasta el 1 de octubre de 84, hicimos el primer ensayo de nuestras fuerzas, y podemos desde luego creer que ellas eran bastantes para sostener las quejas de un pueblo ofensado, siempre que los conflictos interiores no debiliten los recursos que debía proporcionar la unión de los que estaban animados de un mismo interés, y animados de igual peligro.

Nuestro no podiamos subscriberos a esa antigua Ley de la naturaleza que fija el orden que sigue todos los seres en su organización física o moral. Puesto en marcha hacia nuestro destino empezamos a concebir ideas, formar opiniones, y ejecutar proyectos que al paso que desembaraban la tendencia de nuestras mañas, manifestaban que en se había en nuestro alma firmar con la verdad salvo todos los errores, mover las posiciones públicas, y prevalecer siempre los efectos de nuestra rivalidad, resistir en fin a los enemigos interiores y exteriores, sin que algunas veces tuvimosmos que ceder al impulso de la fuerza, o al plan hostil de sus malintencionados.Esta rampa obreras de tal modo sobre nuestras combinaciones, que el eminente triunfo del entusiasmo y de los otros frutos que hizo Chile desde que emprendió la obra de su regeneración, El País cayó nuevamente bajo el yugo Español, y sus habitantes fueron tratados como rebeldes, por que toda revolución es un crimen, quand el buen éxito no revela la justicia de su causo. La opinión y los ulteriores que antes había sufrido Chile, respecto de las atrocidad de que

Voyage to Yedo in 1860

46. PEREIRA, Feliciano Antonio Marques. Viagem da corveta Dom João I a capital do Japão no anno de 1860. Lisbon: Imprensa Nacional, 1863. 8°, contemporary crimson quarter calf over decorated boards (some wear to corners), flat spine with black morocco lettering piece, gilt letter, marbled endleaves, edges sprinkled. In very good to fine condition. Paper label near head of spine. Inscription “3/65 / / Of.” in upper outer corner of recto of half title. 221 pp., (1 l.), large lithographic folding map of Japan. $300.00

FIRST EDITION. The author was captain of the corvette D. João I during its 1860 voyage to Yedo, the capital of Japan. The purpose of the voyage—to negotiate a trade treaty—is described here with detailed accounts of Japanese customs and dress, politics, industry and geography. The second section of the work is a history of Luso-Japanese relations with references to Fernão Mendes Pinto, Diogo do Couto, the American Francis Hawks, and others. Like the United States, Portugal wanted to see Japan opened up to foreign trade. With the success of Perry in 1853, other countries began to send diplomatic missions to Japan, and Portugal was one of the first to do so.

Marques Pereira, son of the diplomat Antonio Feliciano Marques Pereira, was a naval superintendent in Goa and a lieutenant captain in the National Armada.

El Gobierno creería contraer una grave responsabilidad, si desatendiese por mas tiempo la necesidad en que se halla la Republica de una fuerza naval que guarde nuestras estensas costas .... (Santiago de Chile): n.pr., dated 27 May 1830. Folio (30 x 20 cm.), disbound. Printed in cursive type on wove paper. Some browning, but sound. Foldlines. Good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. Manuscript flourish under Portales’ printed name. (2 ll., the second a table).

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Portales explains that Chile ought to have a navy “que vijile sobre la puntual observancia de las leyes fiscales y proteja nuestro comercio exterior.” The government hopes to raise 400,000 pesos for this by loans from businessmen and from foreigners living in Chile. The second leaf gives the tables of interest and amortization over a 15-year period.

The document is signed in print by Diego Portales (1793-1837), the leader of the prominent estanquero party on Chile, which was composed mostly of conservative El Gobierno creía conveniente que pudiese haber en las armas nacionales un listado de las armas y municiones estables en la escuadra para poder hacer frente a cualquier situación. En este sentido, el Gobierno propuso una serie de medidas para mejorar el estado de la armada: la creación de un cuerpo de oficiales que pudieran asumir las responsabilidades del mando naval; la creación de un cuerpo de artilleros; y la mejora de la formación de los soldados. Estas medidas se denominaron "el nuevo sistema".
businessmen. After the Chilean Civil War of 1829, José Tomás Ovalle was named president (March 1830 to May 1831). Portales became his "universal minister," and his ideas shaped the Constitution of 1833, which remained in force until 1925. Portales remained a powerful figure until his death in 1837.

Sets Salaries for Harbor and Naval Officials in Rio de Janeiro

*50. [PORTUGAL. Laws. D. João, Prince Regent of Portugal 1799-1816, then D. João VI King of Portugal and Brazil, 1816-1826]. Decreto. Sendo-Me prezente os graves inconvenientes, que resultarião ao Meu Real Serviço, e ao do Publico de continuar por mais tempo a serem servidos por huma só pessoa os dous Officios de Partão Mór do Arsenal da Marinha, e de Piloto Mór da Barra desta Cidade .... (Rio de Janeiro: Na Impressão Regia), dated 26 March 1808. Folio (29.2 x 20 cm.), disbound. In good to very good condition. (2 ll.), printed on the first two pages only. $900.00

Separates the offices of Partão Mór do Arsenal da Marinha and Piloto Mór da Barra for Rio de Janeiro, appointing the officials, and setting their salaries. This is an early imprint from Rio de Janeiro. Except for the press operated very briefly by Antonio Isidoro da Fonseca in 1747, without authorization, no printing press operated in Brazil until the Portuguese court arrived there in March 1808, as a result of the French invasion of Portugal during the Peninsular War. The Impressão Regia of Rio de Janeiro was the only press in that city from 1808 to 1821, and the only press working in Brazil from 1808 until 1811, when Manuel da Silva Serva began to print in Bahia.

The present decree is slightly different typographically from the one present in our copy of the Codigo brasiliense, which contains the imprint, among other variations. Neither version has the misspelling of “Arcenal” for “Arsenal” mentioned by Almeida Camargo and Borba de Moraes.

integrated into the supplement published in 1984, or the substantially revised edition published in 2005; it has been entirely superseded by the present publication.

Designed by Dean Bornstein and printed at the Stinehour Press, Luneburg, Vermont. Bound by the Mueller Trade Bindery, Middletown, Connecticut. One of the greatest of British historians, David Beers Quinn, who died in 2002, reviews in this essay some of the controversies swirling around Drake in his lifetime and brings to light the grudging admiration in which Drake was held by many Spaniards, in spite of his destructiveness to Spanish interests. The bibliographical supplement lists more than 100 printed sources in the Library relating to Drake. The book was published on the occasion of the joint celebration at the Library on October 11, 1996, of the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Library and of the Hakluyt Society of London.

French Battle British in the Bay of Biscay

53. Relação do forte combate que tiveram duas naos de guerra inglezas, com a náo da India franceza, que no dia dois de Junho do presente anno sahiu do porto desta cidade. Lisbon: n.pr., 1757. 4°, disbound, loosely mounted in folio-size cardboard portfolio. Woodcut vignette on title page. Light browning; 4 cm. tear in blank lower outer corner of title page. Uncut, in good to very good condition. 7, (1) pp. $375.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this rare account of a naval battle in the Bay of Biscay during the Seven Years’ War. The Duc d’Aquitaine had stopped at Lisbon on her way home from India. On the final leg of her journey home she met two English ships in the Bay of Biscay and was forced to surrender. This account briefly describes the two-hour action and the number of dead and wounded on each side.

The Seven Years’ War, 1756-1763, was waged in Europe, North America (where it began in 1754, and is known as the French and Indian War), Central and South America, West Africa, India (the Third Carnatic War), and the Philippines. Prussia, Great Britain, and (from 1761) Portugal were allied against France, Austria, Spain (from 1761), Russia (until 1762), Sweden (1757-1762), Saxony, and the Mughal Empire (from 1757). Aside from venting the ongoing antagonism amongst the Bourbons, Habsburgs, and Hohenzollerns, the countries were battling for overseas colonies and commercial superiority. As a result of the war, Great Britain annexed Canada, much North American territory west of the Alleghenies, and Florida, and became dominant in the Indian subcontinent. France transferred Louisiana to Spain. Prussia gained influence at the expense of the Holy Roman Empire, which is often considered to be the starting point for the rise of the modern German state. Removal of the French threat to the thirteen North American Colonies, and British attempts to obtain revenues from these colonies to compensate for wartime expenditures were major factors in the movement for Independence culminating in the American Revolution.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION? In this letter dated 20 September 1641, the anonymous supposedly Andalusian author describes nine Portuguese galleons in the harbor at Cadiz and their commander. He goes on to discuss the war between Spain and Portugal, with sympathy for the Portuguese cause, referring to Dom Antonio Tello de Menezes, former Viceroy of India, as commander of a victorious Portuguese fleet at Dunkirk.

In good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink (trimmed). (1 l.) $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. According to the anonymous author, Riva Agüero published a document claiming that Admiral Charles Whiting Wooster, who had recently decided to retire to the United States (he was a native of New Haven, Connecticut), had been treated very badly by the government of Chile. The author, who signs himself as “Un Chileno,” declares with rhetorical flourishes that Riva Agüero has no idea what he’s talking about. “Quien es el que determina el premio que merecia Wooster de nosotros por sus servicios? - ¡D. José de la Riva Agüero que no sabe cuáles son esos servicios, lo que cuestan a la nacion ni lo que verdaderamente valian!

José de la Riva Agüero, who was at this time minister plenipotentiary to Chile for General Luis José de Orbegoso of North Peru, succeeded Orbegoso as president of North Peru on August 1, 1838. He was ousted after the Chileans and South Peruvians defeated the Peru-Bolivian Confederation at the Battle of Yungay on January 20, 1839. Exiled to Chile, he wrote one of the most important sources on the history of Peruvian independence: Memorias y documentos para la historia de la independencia del Perú y causas del mal éxito que ha tenido ésta, Paris, 1858.

North Peru’s Minister Plenipotentiary Defends
His Letter of Recommendation for Admiral Charles Whiting Wooster

56. RIVA AGÜERO, José de la. Refutacion a los anonimos impresos en Santiago y Valparaiso contra Don José de la Riva-Agüero. [text begins:] Se ha publicado un papel suelto intitulado Don José de la Riva-Agüero, y otro artículo comunicado en el número 2246 del Mercurio de Valparaiso .... [Santiago de Chile]: Imprenta de la Opinion, dated 20 May 1836. Folio (29 x 18.5 cm.), disbound. Caption title. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. 4 pp. $400.00

FIRST EDITION. Riva Agüero rebuts, point by point, an attack of a few days earlier (José de la Riva Agüero. Aunque presumo ...) and an article recently published in El Mercurio de Valparaiso. Most of the work concerns a recommendation that he had written for Admiral Charles Wooster before Riva Agüero had been appointed as Peru’s minister plenipotentiary to Chile. Wooster (a native of New Haven, Connecticut) had asked a number of acquaintances to write letters of recommendation that he could use when he returned home to the United States.

Riva Agüero had also been accused of being friends with José Maria Novoa, but asserts that the friendship had developed years ago; Novoa’s current disgrace cannot be taken to reflect on everyone who was ever his friend.

For a diplomat, Riva Agüero is remarkably forthright about his dislike for Chile. In August 1838, he succeeded Orbegoso as president of North Peru, remaining in office until Chile and South Peru defeated the Peru-Bolivian Confederation at the Battle of Yungay on January 20, 1839.

Coastal raids on France ("descents") were meant to divert French attention from Germany, lessening the pressure on Britain’s ally, Prussia. Following the successful Cherbourg raid, Lt. General Thomas Bligh and General Richard Howe took their troops west to nearby St. Malo in September. There, however, the British met a larger French force and were forced to retreat, with considerable losses. The Noticia gives details of the officers involved and the number of casualties, based on a letter written in Paris in September.

The Seven Years’ War, 1756-1763, was waged in Europe, North America (where it began in 1754, and is known as the French and Indian War), Central and South America, West Africa, India (the Third Carnatic War), and the Philippines. FIRST EDITION; a second was published Lisbon, 1836. Silva covers the physical and emotional needs of the soldier or sailor, whether on land or sea, beginning with comments on the proper age and mental condition for entry into military service, and moving on to practical information for maintaining the health of military personnel. For example, he discusses the best sources of fresh drinking water: most desirable is water from rivers with clear water, abundant fish, sandy banks, and plant life; to be avoided is standing water, or subterranean waters of calcareous sources. He also lists chemicals that Second edition of this collection of eight works by a leading Spanish legal authority, some of which pertain to laws governing Spanish conquest and settlement in América. All except two had been published previous to the first collected edition, which appeared simultaneously in Saragossa and Madrid, 1676, with slightly different title pages.

Perhaps the most important work in this collection is the "Discurso, y alegacion en derecho, sobre la culpa que resulta contra el General D. Juan de Benavides Becan, y Almirante D. Juan de Leoz … en razon de aver desamparado la flota de su cargo, que el ano de 1628 venia a estos Reinos de la Provincia de Nueva España … en manos del Cossario Olandes, en el Puerto, y Baia de Matanças …" (pp. 245-334). Its account of the capture of a Spanish silver fleet by the Dutch admiral Piet Heyn at Matanzas, Cuba in 1628 makes it one of the crucial sources for the history of the war between the Spanish and the Dutch. The "Discurso" had been published separately at Madrid, 1631, and in that edition is extremely rare.

In one of the works not published separately, Solorzano Pereira discusses whether officials in the Chancellería de Valladolid had the right to brand the faces of some gypsies accused of theft (pp. 335-9). The other work not published separately, "Papel político, con lugares de buenas letras, sobre la variedad de los dictámenes de los hombres, así en el lúgar, como en el Discurrir acerca de cualquier cosa" (pp. 201-8), discusses how men come to disagree, with copious quotations from classical authors.

Solorzano Pereira was a Spanish jurist who for a time lived in Lima, where he was a member of the Senate. After his return to Spain he became legal advisor to the Council of the Indies. His De jure Indiarum or Política Indiana, first published in Madrid, 1629, is a major source on all aspects of Indian life.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Describes a naval engagement off Cartagena, on the southeast coast of Spain, on September 4, 1642, between the French, under the Duc de Bresse, and the Spanish. Details are given of the troops and types of ships involved, and of the actions of the duke and his subordinates over the course of several days.

This was a minor action in the brutal course of the Thirty Years’ War (1618-1648), which began as a religious conflict between Catholics and Protestants within the Holy Roman Empire, and evolved into a battle between the Bourbons and Habsburgs. The War significantly affected the outcome of the Portuguese struggle for independence, since it prevented the King of Spain from directing his full military might against Portugal.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION? Consists of a 4-line “Epigrafe” followed by a 60-line “Oda”. Juan María de Villavicencio y de la Serna (Medina-Sidonia, 2/22/1755 - Madrid, 4/25/1830) was a member of the third Consejo de Regencia under D. Fernando VII, 1812-1813, and Capitán General de la Armada, 1817-1830. When this poem was written he had been promoted from commanding Havana to commanding the naval infantry in Cadiz and had been named to the regency council. Trisadra mentions in a note that while in charge of Havana, Villavicencio had cut taxes on working boats in the harbor, with much benefit to commerce there. He also mentions France with disdain, for example, “Españoles insanos, Que seguis las vanderas de la Francia ....”

AL EXCELENTISIMO SEÑOR
DON JUAN MARIA VILLAVICENCIO, INVIDIDO DEL NUEVO SUPREMO
CABEZAL DE ALEGRIA, TENIENTE GENERAL
DE LA REAL ARMADA DE L,.

EPIGRAFE.

Y yo al son de mi lyra last brodada
Tus triunfos canté en ardos versos,
Transmitiendo tu nombre generoso
De un polo al otro polo con prudencia. (1)

ODA.

Agrade esta mi,:
Tras la lyra, y con suoso acento
Canta con melodia
Los servicios y méritos sin cuenta
Del gran Villavicencio,
Que en enemigo quemarse en el silencio,
Y oh, hombre generoso,
Patriota inorable, ilustre hispano,
Adelantados
Contra los basileos del mayor tirano!
De mi casa adorado
Que su voz en la tercer jornada. (2)
Oye su voz alegre:
Oyes que canta en tono halagüeño
El valer esquálido,
Que has desdoblado siemante complaciente
Para que tu amistad
Se eternice en los festos de la historia.

Las Cortes generals
Penetrados del solo sin segundo,
Que en tiempos tan fatales
Has demostrado con valor profundo,
Tu premio deservio,
Y uno de los Regantes le nombraste.

(1) YO: Elogiaba al mismo señor Villavicencio.
(2) Cuando el gobierno supremo central de la nación promovió al Excelentísimo señor Villavicencio, de la comandancia general del apoderado de la Habana, a encargarse, en el departamento de Cúcuta, de la inspección y comisión general de los cuerpos de infantería de marina; le dedicó otra oda en despedida; y posteriormente la epístola citada.
La expedicion despues de una navegacion felicísima .... [Santiago de Chile]: Imprenta Araucana, [1837]. Folio (29 x 18.5 cm.), disbound. Woodcut ornament below caption title. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. Broadside. $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Reports on the progress of the Chilean naval expedition against the Peru-Bolivian Confederation, which landed at Islay (in southern Peru) in October. This account mentions minor skirmishes and the capture of Arequipa. It also states that Marshal Santa Cruz was disliked by Peruvians and Bolivians (“Aseguran que en la Paz ha sido insultado públicamente su retrato”) and that the Argentines are invading the south.

Although this writer states that “Los pueblos reciben en palmas a sus libertadores,” General Blanco Encalada’s troops did not receive the support from locals that they had hoped for. The Chilean soldiers were soon surrounded by Santa Cruz’s army, and Blanco Encalada was forced to sign the Treaty of Paucarpata (November 17, 1837) - which the Chilean government promptly repudiated.

Veterans Cheer Soldiers Embarking for Peru

68. [WAR OF THE PERU-BOLIVIAN CONFEDERATION]. Los Veteranos de Santiago al Ejercito Restaurado del Peru. [text begins:] Ilustres guerreros! — Llegó el momento de volar á ser por segunda vez los libertadores del desgraciado Perú.... [Santiago de Chile]: Imprenta de la Independencia, dated 2 September 1837. Folio (28 x 18.5 cm.), disbound. Above the caption title is a charming woodcut headpiece (5 x 15 cm.) of cavalrymen in battle. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. (1 l.) $600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The veterans of Chile wish speed and victory to the Chilean soldiers setting off on the expedition to free Peru from the vil conquistador Andrés Santa Cruz of the Peru-Bolivian Confederation. The Peruvians are described as standing plaintively on their shores with raised arms, waiting only for the appearance of Chilean ships to rebel. This is one of the few Chilean ephemeral pamphlets that expresses any sympathy for Peru, although it is perhaps less sympathy than Schadenfreude: “Llegó el momento de voltar á ser por segunda vez los libertadores del desgraciado Perú.” The leaf includes at the top a charming woodcut of cavalrymen charging into battle.

The naval expedition against the Peru-Bolivian Confederation was headed by General Blanco Encalada, who had defeated the Quillota mutineers in June. In Peru his force of 2,800 was not, in fact, greeted with relief by Peruvians. Instead it was surrounded by Marshal Santa Cruz’s troops, and Blanco Encalada was forced to sign the Treaty of Paucarpata (November 17, 1837), which the Chilean government promptly repudiated.

LOST VETERANOS
DE SANTIAGO
AL EJÉRCITO RESTAURADOR
DEL PERÚ.

HISTORIAS GUERREROS!—Llegó el momento de volver á ser por segunda vez los libertadores del desgraciado Perú. Un vil con quista, descendiente de los renombrados siervos de Bolivia, ha caído sobre aquel país hermoso y florido que se vio nacer bajo vuestra unión, y la ha devorado. Sin otros títulos que su deses-perada ambición, sin otro apoyo que la mas hermosa perjudicial, ha viscido las leyes mas sagradas, y pretendido reconstruir en América la firma. El ha osado hacer á Chile blanco de sus perros designios, y obrilado quizás de que en él moraban los que le hicieron prisione-ros en Pisco. creyó contado presto entre sus desafíos. Id, pues, invi-vencibles Soldados! Id á castigar tanta vilanía! Vuestros hermanos afiliados os tienden desde las playas vecinas sus brazos supplicantes.
Sólo esperan ver aparecer vuestros navíos en el horizonte para lanzar el grito de libertad ó misericordia! Presentaos, y los vencedor correr á los brazos de sus libertadores.

Horrorizado el inmundo Santa Cruz, al oir que vais á darle el castigo de sus crímenes, siente ya bambolear el traño que elevó sobre cadáveres. En ninguna parte se contempla segui-ro, las sombras de sus víctimas le presagian por dó quiera, tiende la veta en reíder de si, y solo encuentra objetos de espanto y de teror. Recela de todos, porque conoce que el opresor no puede tener amigos; os tene, porque sabe que os abalanza el entusiasmo jeneroso de la libertad, y que vais á combatir por la mas justa de las causas. Volved pues, á realizar sus tamaños, y acabe el perros de reconocer en vosotros á los héroes de Chacabuco y de Maypo.

COMPATRIOTAS! El Perú está destinado á ser el teatro de vuestras hazañas. Allí á donde acabasteis de darle al Leon harrastre de la España, allí vais hoy á castigar al siervo de los espa-

69. ZUBIRIA, Justiniano de. La expedicion de El Talisman. Valparaiso: Imprenta del Mercurio de Tornero y Leitelier, 1875. 8°, stitched (traces of early wrappers). Title page and final leaf soiled and loose with some fraying and small tears. Light browning. In almost good condition. iv, 260 pp. $200.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this detailed look at chaotic events in Peru from 1867 to 1874, the period preceding the War of the Pacific (1879-1883) between Peru, Chile, and Bolivia. The work focuses on the expedition of the Talisman, which sailed in 1874 from Quinteros, Chile, under the direction of Nicolas de Pierola. Pierola served as Peru’s president from 1879-1881 (after a coup d’état against Mariano Ignacio Prado) and 1895-1899 (after winning a popular election).
